Council To Vote Monday on Establishing City Income Tax; Rate .6 of One Per Cent

Early Summit Parley Urged By Macmillan

OTTAWA (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, on his way to talks with President Eisenhower, today urged the Western powers to frame a united policy on Germany based on "firm principles combined with a readiness to negotiate."

Macmillan arrived by plane from London. Before leaving for Washington Thursday, he will fill in Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and other Canadian officials on his Berlin crisis talks in Moscow with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Macmillan plans to see ailing U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at Walter Reed Army Hospital before he meets with Eisenhower.

Diefenbaker and other officials were on hand to greet Macmillan, who led off his remarks with a tribute to Canadian Foreign Secretary Sidney Smith, who died Tuesday.

Macmillan said it was generally accepted that East-West negotiationsvon Germany must take place this summer.

Speaking first in English and switching later to French, Macmillan said he went to Moscow to feel out the ground, and he believed he had attained success.

Macmillan's Goal

The British leader, accompanied by Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, hopes to convince Eisenhower that a summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev can solve the explosive Berlin situation without shooting.

Officials in Washington expressed belief Eisenhower's speech Monday, conditionally endorsing a summit meeting, had greatly improved the atmosphere for the talks with Macmillan. The President agreed to a top level meeting in the summer if a foreign ministers' conference on Germany proposed for mid-May gives promise that the government heads can agree on anything.

Macmillan's visit to Eisenhower will climax the series of conferences he has carried on with Khrushchev, French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Three Promising Points

Macmillan was reported cheered by three points brought up in Eisenhower's broadcast:

1. American readiness to take part in a summit parley if such a meeting is justified. On the basis of his findings in Moscow, Paris and Bonn, Macmillan seems pretty sure developments will justify such a conference.

2. U.S. willingness to "listen to new ideas" and "to present others."

3. U.S. resolve to distinguish between negotiations and appeasement.

DiSalle Bids For Speedup On Tax Hike

Need for Money May See Increases Going Into Effect by May 1

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It begins to look as though Ohioans will be paying many tax increases by May 1. The state needs the money.

Aided by a push from Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, the legislative mill in the Statehouse will begin to grind out the tax increases next month. These probably will include 2-cent tax increases on cigarettes and gasoline.

Calls for Speed

DiSalle asked for speed on the tax program when Finance Director James Maloon warned that the treasury will be bare sometime in May.

Even while the big tax push is barely getting started, legislative attention will be diverted for a time today toward the battle over supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) in the Ohio House.

The Senate approved bill to legalize simultaneous SUB payments and state jobless benefits comes to a floor vote today and the big question is: Will the House adopt an emergency clause to make the bill effective as soon as it is signed by the governor?

Losing Battle Seen

The odds seem to be against the emergency clause. The Senate struck the emergency before it passed the bill. House Democrats plan a bitter fight to keep it in the bill, but Republican opposition and possible defection by some Democrats indicate a losing battle.

The Democrats, 77 strong, must keep their ranks intact and pick up 16 Republican votes to muster the two-thirds approval needed to keep the emergency clause alive.

SUB opponents have indicated an attempt may be made to carry the issue to the ballot if the House kills the emergency clause. The 90-day waiting period would give them a chance to pass referendum petitions.

Maloon, in a letter to DiSalle, pointed up the state treasury's critical situation. He asserted:

"Unless legislative action is taken to meet the situation, the state will undoubtedly reach an insolvent position in a matter of a few months."

Lemnitzer To Be Army's Staff Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer to be the new chief of staff of the Army in succession to Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Lemnitzer has been vice chief of staff since July 1957. The White House said Taylor had requested that he not be renamed to another term. His present term expires June 30.

Space Stations in 10 Years Predicted

Expert on Rockets Gives Marionites Look at Future

By WILLIAM VANCE

German rocketeer Walter Dornberger whisked some 300 Marionites 10 years into outer space Tuesday night, gave them a glimpse of what to expect there and brought them back to earth with this warning:

"The next war will be won not by mass destruction but by one single launching site that continues to fire and survive."

But aside from reckoning with an inevitable extension of the cold war into outer space and some unsolved problems, the Bell Aircraft executive painted a rosy picture of what can be expected within the next decade.

He spoke on "Man's Future in Space" in the Hotel Harding ballroom for the third in a series of four seminars sponsored by the engineering department of the Marion Division of the Whirlpool Corp.

Maneuverable space vehicles and manned space stations.

Reliable, up-to-the-minute weather predictions for four to five days in advance.

An advanced communications system that may make it possible to "send a letter to Japan in one-thousandth of a second."

Space observatories which can delve deeper outside the earth's haze.

(Turn to ROCKET EXPERT, P. 10)

GREAT ACHIEVEMENTS ON WAY. Rocket expert Walter Dornberger (right) told a Marion audience at Hotel Harding Tuesday night that significant achievements in man's utilization of space can be expected within the next decade. He was in Marion as the third speaker in a seminar series sponsored by the engineering department of the Marion Division of the Whirlpool Corp. Here he confers with Raymond P. Whitman Jr., project engineer at Whirlpool, who served as chairman of the seminar. Mr. Dornberger, who now is technical assistant to the president of Bell Aircraft, helped develop the German V-1 and V-2 rockets and supersonic antiaircraft weapons as commanding officer of the German rocket development center at Peenemunde, Germany.

Largest Share To Be Used on Street Repairs

By CHARLES L. MARTIN

Marion City Council will vote Monday on an income tax of six-tenths of one per cent.

To be effective for a 19-month period beginning June 1, it would produce an estimated $760,000 in revenue.

All Marion residents earning incomes would be affected. So would all non-residents who make their living in the city.

The proposed tax was announced today by Councilman Harold Smith (D-at large), chairman of the council finance committee, which has been working on it for some time.

After costs of collecting, administering and enforcing the tax are met, the residue will be used as follows, he said:

The first $261,000 a year (58 per cent of the estimated yearly revenue) for "capital improvements of the city, including, but not limited to, street repairs and maintenance."

The next $121,500 a year (27 per cent) for general fund operations, personnel and new equipment.

The next $67,500 a year (15 per cent) for storm sewer construction and maintenance and elimination of cross-connections in the sewer system.

Rest to General Fund

If the tax produces more money than this, the extra revenue will go into the general fund for disbursement by order of council.

Cost of collection, administration and enforcement of the tax is estimated at $25,000 to $30,000 for the first year and less for subsequent years, Mr. Smith said.

He said that the legislation to establish the tax will not be designated emergency legislation.

This means that the measure will be subject to a referendum if those opposing it obtain the signatures of 10 per cent of the voters in the city who voted for governor at last November's general election. The referendum petitions would have to be completed and submitted within 30 days of adoption of the tax legislation and its approval by the mayor.

Providing the necessary referendum petitions are not filed within the 30-day period, the legislation calls for income tax collections for the month of June to begin on July 1.

Effective Through 1960

The legislation also proposes that the tax ordinance be effective only through Dec. 31, 1960.

Filing of the referendum petitions would mean that the issue would be voted on at the Nov. 3 general election and the tax could not be collected prior to the determination of the results of the election.

Mr. Smith said today that it has been estimated that in the seven months from June 1 through Dec. 31 this year, the tax would produce $280,000.

Would Leave $260,000

Collection, administration and enforcement costs this year would be from $20,000 to $25,000 and this could leave a balance of some $255,000 to $260,000 this year, he said.

Under the proposed formula, this would mean that all the money collected this year, in excess of the collection costs, would be used for capital improvements, including street repairs, he said.

If council adopts the necessary ordinance and a resolution to establish the tax, four other companion pieces of legislation will be presented, he said.

One of these will be to issue city notes to borrow $100,000 for street repairs so that the work can begin immediately without waiting for collection of the tax to start, he said.

However, this note issue will not be made until after the deadline for filing of referendum petitions has passed, he said.

Approval of council by a large majority, though not a unanimous vote, is expected. All councilmen are familiar with the legislation, since it has been considered in committee-of-the-whole sessions.

It is possible that there will be sufficient votes for the tax to suspend the rules and pass it at Monday night's meeting.

Other Legislation

Other companion legislation, which also would not become effective until after the deadline, would be:

An ordinance to enter into a contract with J. Emerson Davis and Co. of Youngstown to serve as consultants for the city in setting up the collection, administration and enforcement of the tax.

Defense Chiefs Face Quizzing By House Unit

Representatives Link Aid to Kind of War America Would Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense chiefs face questioning today as to what kind of war the United States would fight if the Berlin crisis exploded.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) said he considers such questions pertinent to what kind of military foreign aid should be approved.

Called by Committee

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were called as witnesses before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, which is considering President Eisenhower's $3,930,000,000 foreign aid program.

Hays, a committee member, said he wanted to question the military officials "to clarify President Eisenhower's apparent statement that we would not use ground troops in Europe."

Hays said this statement at an Eisenhower news conference, coupled with earlier administration statements that the United States would not fire the first intercontinental ballistic missile "might be taken as a blank check."

Possible Misunderstanding

"I don't think the President meant that," Hays said, "but it seems to me he may well be misunderstood by (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev. I think it would be very dangerous to leave things as confused as they are now."

Hays said in an interview that if the United States really does not mean to use ground troops in any possible European clash, the argument that military aid is needed to maintain a shield of such troops loses most of its value.

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa), chairman of the House Committee, indicated meanwhile that this year's aid program may be cut even more sharply than the 650-million-dollar cut in Eisenhower's requests made last year.

Delay Seen in Ruling

Amish School Suit In Hands of Judge

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—A court hearing was adjourned after two days of testimony on whether to close the two Amish elementary schools in Hardin County.

Before adjournment Tuesday, E. Guy Hammond of Cuyahoga Falls, defense attorney for the Amish, asked the court to cite laws that apply to the case.

Hardin County Common Pleas Judge Arthur D. Tudor told Hammond to make his request in writing. The case will rest until then.

Prosecutor Paul McKinley said the answering will take from 10 to 15 days.

THE EFFECT of the action Tuesday was to end the actual hearing and put the case in the hands of the judge.

Attorney Hammond wants Judge Tudor to cite the specific law involved in each of his rulings. This also will have to be done in writing, court officials said.

The Hardin County Board of Education has asked the court for an injunction to close the schools on grounds the Amish teachers are not certified by the state and the schools are substandard in courses of instruction.

One witness Tuesday was Alva Lambright who wept as he told the court his family was ostracized and he "got into trouble" with his sect "because I wanted to comply at least partially with the school laws."

Lambright, a former member of the Amish Board of Education in Hardin County, said he entered his five youngest children in public school "because I didn't want any more trouble with the law." Three older children, he said, were sent to an Amish vocational school, but "they were sent home the first day because the Amish didn't want us any more."

ANOTHER WITNESS was Henry Hershberger of Wayne County, head of the State Amish School Board. He said Amish school standards, drawn up two months ago and approved Monday, include these provisions:

1. A teacher must have at least

City's Request For Ordnance Land Is Denied

Grand Prairie Board Protest Effective in Blocking Acquisition

The city received notice today that its application for a 25-acre tract of surplus federal land in Grand Prairie Township for use as a dump has been turned down.

In a letter to City Solicitor Riley Hall, Walter G. Rhoten, chief of property utilization for the state department of education, listed three reasons for the rejection:

1. The city has adquate land for landfill operations for the next 7 to 10 years.

2. One of the primary reasons for transfer of government land at 100 per cent discount is current and present need.

3. On the basis of information from the Grand Prairie Township trustees, the department concluded that the city could find less valuable land for sanitary landfill and that the Grand Prairie land

Morrow Area Doctor Hit by 7 New Counts

MOUNT GILEAD — One suspect in a livestock smuggling ring was sentenced to the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield Tuesday while another pleaded not guilty to a charge of receiving stolen property and then was charged with seven new counts of possessing stolen property.

Donald High, 19, of near Cardington, indicted by the Morrow County Grand Jury last week on a charge of grand larceny, pleaded guilty Tuesday afternoon at his arraignment before Judge Leland Rutherford. He was sentenced to a term of 1 to 7 years at the Reformatory.

Dr. Crawford W. Pope, 51, of near Cardington; charged with receiving stolen property in a secret indictment returned last week, pleaded not guilty. His trial date was set for April 13 by Judge Rutherford and his bond of $1,000 was continued.

Dr. Pope was taken to the Mount Gilead Mayor's Court after

Statehood Bill For Hawaii Is Signed by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed the bill to make Hawaii the 50th state.

With the bill's signing, Hawaii could, by taking fast action, get officially into the Union by next July. This would be in time to send members to the present session of Congress. October is more likely, however. It took six months to add Alaska's 49th star to the flag.

Territorial Gov. William Quinn has 30 days after formal notification of the President's approval in which to issue a proclamation of elections.

A primary must be held no less than 60 nor more than 90 days after the proclamation. General election must come no later than 40 days after the primary.

Eisenhower's proclamation making Hawaii the 50th state will come after the election results are officially certified.

County Seeks To Recall Some of Auditor's Funds

The courthouse pay raise dispute continued to seethe beneath the surface today following a late meeting Tuesday between County Auditor Maurice C. Clements and the county commissioners.

Latest developments in the issue, which centers on pay hikes granted to 11 employes in the auditor's office, point to possible raises for all courthouse employes.

Clarence Keil, chairman of the commissioners, said this morning that the commissioners told Mr. Clements Tuesday afternoon they would attempt to recall "some of the money" granted in raises, and scrape up some additional funds in an effort to give everyone a pay boost.

He said the auditor continued to stand firm on the raises he granted. They range between $15 and $35 a month.

Mr. Keil said the auditor told the commissioners he doesn't think any of the money can be recalled and that if necessary he would make a test case out of it.

Mr. Clements continued to remain silent on the issue this morning, declining to comment to newsmen about it.

Mr. Keil said the auditor has proposed that the county borrow from the sinking fund enough

Decision on Compelling Polio Shots Postponed

By DUANE CROFT
Marion Star Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS — The Health Committee of Ohio House of Representatives put off for another week Tuesday its decision on whether polio shots should be required for all Ohio children.

A subcommittee's recommendation that the bill be extended to include immunization against four other communicable diseases led to the postponement by chairman Vernon G. Hisrich (D-Tuscarawas).

The subcommittee, in turn, was reported split two-to-one between "first and second choices" offered by the State Health Department and the Ohio State Medical Association.

Spokesmen for both had testified in earlier hearings that they preferred to maintain the present law, leaving the decision to local boards of education.

They added, however, that if polio shots were required on a statewide basis, they wanted smallpox, tetanus, whooping cough and diphtheria immunization also included.

The subcommittee's report favored that action but included a provision that the present law remain on the books as well. This would allow local boards to re-

Meeting Slated Thursday by Rural Electric

The annual meeting of the Marion Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc., now in its 21st year of operation, will be an event of Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Ridgedale School.

Three trustees will be elected for a three-year term and a distribution of patronage refunds for 1959 will be made to members attending the session.

The concern reports that members used 11,306,869 kilowatt hours of electricity in 1958, compared to only 10,155,016 the year previous. Average rate paid was $2.35, down 21 cents from the $2.56 paid nationally.

Marion county REC members used an average of 6,841 kilowatt hours of power last year, compared to a national average of 3,385, according to the report.

Managing the local organization is Kenneth Kinsler. Directors are Frank Clay, president; Fred C. Loyer, secretary; and Harvey Eichhorn, Dale Parsell, Homer Kile, Oscar Murphy and Floyd Cluff.

No Progress in Talks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Management and union negotiators met face-to-face Tuesday for the first time since a strike began 18 days ago against Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. But the result was the same—no progress.

Federal Mediator H. J. Montoney said he probably will call for another session before the week's end.

Raise Teachers' Pay

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—This city's 311 public school teachers have been granted annual $300 across-the-board pay increases. The action taken Tuesday by the City Board of Education also gives non-teaching school employes a straight 5 per cent salary boost. Pay now ranges from $3,750 to $5,025 for teachers with bachelor degrees.

Court To Review Formula for Real Estate Valuation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Uniform rules drafted by the state for valuation of real property for tax purposes will be reviewed, the Ohio Supreme Court said today

The High Court accepted the appeal of Cuyahoga County Auditor John J. Carney from a Franklin County Appellate Court decision holding the regulations valid The appellate court reversed a common pleas court decision that upset the rules drafted in 1957 by the State Board of Tax Appeals

Carney claimed the board failed to comply with the law in adopting rules for all 88 counties He termed them unfair and unreasonable The trial court held they were an unlawful delegation of legislative authority to the board

The appellate court reversed the trial court

MIRIAM

"And his sister stood afar off, to wit what would be done to him."

—Exodus 2:4

The girl referred to in this passage is Miriam, the sister of Moses, who watched over the infant when his ark of bullrushes was placed in the Nile.

Her name is not given us until later. But we know she grew up with Moses, after showing her intelligence and presence of mind in asking Pharaoh's daughter if she would not like a nurse for the baby.

The "nurse" she brought was, of course, their own mother.

Until Pharaoh's daughter had adopted Moses as her own son, Miriam lived with her parents, Amram and Jochebed, in a crude, roofless house, stuccoed with river mud.

Being Israelites, a people in bondage to the Egyptian king, they had to work very hard for a bare livelihood. Miriam helped as best she could by grinding grain and kneading the dough for bread. Using a bundle of soft river grass tied together as a broom, she kept their humble home swept clean.

After Moses was born, it was her job to watch over the baby constantly, to see that he did not cry. For his parents were disobeying the law of Pharaoh in not drowning the child when it was born. If their secret were discovered by the Egyptians, they would all be severely punished.

Little Miriam performed this task with devotion and skill. But some days, as she set waving the flies from the sleeping infant with a palm leaf, she wondered how long they could go on without being found out.

When her mother told her of her plan to save the baby Moses, Miriam's assistance showed clearly that she was being used by God.

Later in life, she became a prophetess, and was a leader of the Israelite women during their wanderings in the wilderness.

But for a time, she forgot the warm love and simple faith of her childhood, and rebelled against the leadership of her brother Moses.

So she joined with those who spoke against him, saying:

"Hath the Lord indeed spoken only to Moses? hath he not spoken also to us."

But Moses, remembering her early love and her good heart, forgave her. And he healed her of leprosy by his earnest prayers.

Thievery Runs Up Costs

Light-Fingered Americans Give Hotels Bad Time

NEW YORK (AP) — The traveling American, it seems, not only is free-wheeling but light-fingered. While hotelmen only infrequently encounter guests who make off with sheets, blankets and furniture, loss is high of such items as washcloths, whisky shot glasses, highball stirrers, cleansing tissues, wooden coat hangers, shoe mitts, and, of course, towels.

One 1,000 room hotel in midtown Manhattan runs through 21,000 shot glasses a year, for instance, and its replacement rate on washcloths is 17,000 per annum.

"OF COURSE," conceded Neal Lang, general manager of the Roosevelt, "there is considerable chippage on the shot glasses, but also they are of a size and usefulness that make them dandy souvenirs, even though they are not marked with the hotel name. We used to have an even higher loss of face cloths until we cut them down in size and thickness to a point where they aren't as attractive as they could be.

Shoe mitts, which cost the hotel around six cents each, are rerate of 60,000 a year.

The usual presence of inferior wire coat hangers in even first class hotels is mute testimony of guests' collecting tendencies. Until recently no one had invented a pilfer-proof coat hanger, but some of the newer hotels are installing non-removable hangers which travel on tracks.

WOMEN, the hotel executive says, are usually the ones who abscond with cleansing tissues.

"Men," he philosophized, "use the tissues as they need them: women anticipate using them in the future. We've made the tissue box holders quite difficult to open, so usually the women have to go to the trouble of removing them sheet by sheet. But they do it."

Loss of the larger, more expensive items of furnishings is kept to a minimum by the floor maids, who check a vacated room almost as soon as the departing guest has left, and by supervisors who keep an eye on a specified block of rooms. Occasionally, however, a guest will make off with a blanket, a picture or even a pillow.

When some such item is missing, the hotel writes a first polite letter to the guest asking that he check his luggage and see if he hasn't "inadvertently" packed a blanket or whatever.

The recipient of one such letter replied furiously that he not only had not inadvertently packed a blanket, but that he also had not inadvertently packed a mattress or the desk.

TOWEL collectors are not as much of a problem as they once were. For one thing, hotels have learned to make towels less attractive: many now omit the name of the hotel on them. Stage star Walter Slezak, however, is a hotel towel collector — but only from the nation's very top hotels, and unlike many of his fellow collectors, is willing to pay. He intends to have a bathrobe made of them.

Many a traveler is a menu collector — and it costs Lang's hotel almost $100 a day just to print those for the various restaurants within the hotel. One of the restaurants uses an outsize, elaborate menu which costs the hotel 30 cents each. Once, thinking it good advertising, there was a line on the menu urging guests to keep the menu as a souvenir. Now the line is removed.

"If they really want it," said Lang, "they'll ask for it or just take it."

Fireman in Honolulu Has Run-In With Boss

Both men were off duty at the time.

Volunteer Firemen Find Fund Collecting Is Easy

BERLIN, Wis. (AP) — The local volunteer fire department, wise in the ways of fire buffs, conducted its annual fund drive with a minimum of effort this year. Instead of beating a path from door to door in the community, the fire laddies just turned on the siren and let it wail.

When a substantial proportion of the 5,000 population converged on the station to find out where the fire was, firemen passed the hat. Collected: $600.

In America, All Nerves Are Exposed

As May 27 comes closer, international tension over Russia's threat to use East Germany as it used North Korea, to fight Communism's war against the West, will mount.

All the advantage lies with the Communists in this war of nerves. Not more than a few thousand Russians even know what the Kremlin is doing. There is no speculation about the outcome.

The Kremlin's nerveless masters of an authoritarian state and a tightly restricted Communist conspiracy are pitting their mental discipline against the undisciplined minds of millions living under governments that must be responsive to popular opinion.

President Eisenhower's address this week was an effort to bring resoluteness to the non-Communist world to match the resoluteness of a handful of men in the Kremlin.

He recognized, as all government leaders elsewhere must recognize, that the Soviet Union has the burglar's advantage. Premier Khrushchev knows what he intends to do, but his intended victims must guess.

He knows what force he would bring to bear; his victims must guess.

They cannot even know what force they could raise to meet his force. At this instant, the United States is deep in debate over the terms of its national security. It is deep in doubt about NATO. It does not know what the United Nations would do. Its militarists, politicians and people are in mental turmoil about the possibility of war.

IN THE UNITED STATES, Britain and France, the three countries most directly involved in the war of nerves that Premier Khrushchev has been waging so adroitly, every nerve is exposed. Discussion and speculation are unlimited. The interplay of pressures is uninhibited. Criticism is unrestrained. Militarists reveal their differences of opinion with other militarists. They and their sponsoring politicians can second-guess and bait the President, as they have been doing the last few days.

There are no certainties, no absolutes, no "sure things." Berlin is militarily indefensible because of its location, yet it must be defended. The Western Allies must not be pushed out of Germany by the Russians, but it would not be the Russians who would do the pushing. It would be East Germans.

The United States as the strongest non-Communist nation must push back with all the strength at its command, but if that would mean all-out nuclear warfare waged against Russian targets there would be some of history's gravest misgivings. Yet, on the other hand, the United States does not intend to go through another Korean meat-grinder, sacrificing thousands of its best men and billions of its wealth to the savagery of an enemy that cannot be identified positively — not even legally — as its real enemy.

ALL THIS IS known to the Kremlin and to the Communist conspirators. They are counting on it to shatter the composure of their intended victims.

They are gambling on the probability, as they see it, that free men will go to pieces under the impact of their own doubts and misgivings.

Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo made the same gamble in their time, and what happened to them is the only assurance there is that Khrushchev and his men will prefer to negotiate.

Fine Appointment

The appointment of Dr. Frederick T. Merchant to the board of governors of Marion General Hospital was an excellent one.

It particularly was appropriate in that he was selected to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Frederick G. Smith, since both are among the leaders in the medical fraternity and they have the same sense of dedication to their profession and interest in hospital problems.

Dr. Merchant is eminently qualified to serve on the board of governors. Chief surgeon and former chief of staff at the hospital, he has a distinguished and varied background of training, and he has been closely associated with the administrative and medical staffs since the hospital was constructed.

His presence on the board should be a tremendous help.

'Explosion' Rocks the Courthouse

The furor raging at the Marion County Courthouse over pay raises can develop several interesting points of law before it is finished.

The controversy arose when it was discovered the county auditor had granted pay increases for his employes after other departments had been turned down for boosts in the 1959 appropriations.

At the center of the hubbub is one of the most experienced, quietly-efficient and astute officials in the county government—Auditor Maurice C. Clements.

Just what Mr. Clements' reasoning is on the matter remains a mystery, since he declines to be drawn into the controversy and has had no comments on it.

Meanwhile, Prosecutor Robert O. Stout has been asked by the commissioners to rule on whether money, once appropriated to an office, can be recalled.

Whatever the ruling, it is likely to create new fireworks. An affirmative answer would indicate cancellation or reduction of the raises in the auditor's office and a negative one would bring renewed efforts by the other departments to obtain increases.

Mr. Clements was acting within his legal rights in granting the raises, since once the appropriations have been set a department head normally has full jurisdiction on expenditure of the funds, according to the prosecutor.

What the over-all effect on the courthouse offices will be remains to be seen, but the situation is an interesting one.

Admittedly there can be extenuating circumstances governing almost any action, but as a generality we should say that pay adjustments among county employes should affect all departments and not be limited to one.

Rejuvenated 40

The American Legion's 40th birthday this week could have been a mildly melancholy occasion without the influx of new members after World War II and the Korean War. But thanks to their presence, the aging veterans of World War I are assured of the camaraderie of the Legion organization for many years to come. It is a happy birthday.

One thinks in this respect of the way the Grand Army of the Republic gradually lost momentum in the first years of this century. Its birthdays turned into sadly sentimental reviews of the past. The Legion, however, mixes its "old soldiers" with others not quite so old; the benefit is mutual.

Everybody wishes the Legion many more birthdays. After 40 years, its status is that of an indispensable national institution, a pillar of the ideals that qualified its members for the privilege of wearing the military uniform of the United States.

Pointing Out the Suspects

If you are one of the millions who have mused about the logic of passenger railroading in an age of transportation, you may be one of thousands who will be interested in the forthcoming issue of Trains, which is railroading's trade magazine.

The editor of the magazine, David P. Morgan, has tackled a gigantic case of transportation murder in a comprehensive brief, "Who Shot the Passenger Train?" His thesis is clear and pointed: The passenger train did not die of obsolescence, like the stagecoach; it was killed by people who should have known better.

Among the murderers listed by Morgan are the managements of railroads, who were so obsessed with the importance of freight transportation that they never understood the possibilities of passenger transportation.

But the logic of the job still challenges them. A passenger instrument that can propel 200 to 300 people at 80 miles an hour with only 1,500 horsepower and a crew of three or four men is without equal, Morgan declares, in short and medium-range transportation. He concedes that in long-distance transportation the jet airplane is superior.

Yet, this logical facility has been so abused by archaic regulations, obsolete labor contracts, unequal taxation, publicity sponsored competition and bad management that it is a candidate for the museum. Many things would have to be done to keep it from going there, and they may be too unwieldy to handle. But if the problem can be solved, it must start with three new concepts. First, government must give passenger services an even break on regulations. Second, organized labor must let railroads get the advantage of their productivity. Third, railroad management must let passenger service stand on its own feet, separate from freight service.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Annual meeting time is here, with big corporations welcoming stockholders to hard-to-reach towns and serving free lunch, forced affability and answers to sharp questions. (Incidentally expressing silent gratitude to the fact most stockholders send in proxies instead of giving up a day to road maps, chicken sandwiches, pumpkin pie and lukewarm coffee.) From a prepackaged speech by any corporation chairman of the board.

"Welcome, stockholders, to the annual demonstration of ruggedness beyond the call of duty. Your officers are working for your interests. Only at the annual quiz show do they wonder if it's worth while. They are in shape for sharp looks, embarrassing questions and caustic cracks. In 1958 caustic cracks were up 15 per cent over those of the previous year, and we expect 1959 to show even a further rise. What good is your chairman of the board if he can't take it?

"As I look into your inquisitive faces I am grateful that very few shareholders show up at these meetings. Your officers have nothing to hide. The auditors take care of that. We welcome your questions and will try to make the answers so confusing that you will go home with nothing clear except an impression that the pumpkin pie crust was soggy and the Gilbert brothers were not up to 1958 form.

"Begin shouting. Ask us all about our salaries and pensions and please quit early in your efforts to understand why we get incentive bonuses. All we ask is that you remember what the income tax does to a big annual income. Don't ask me why some of your officers getting $150,000 a year own little stock. It puzzles me, too. Maybe it's in the wife's name.

Bad Time To Be Stuck

'To Keep Out of War'

By David Lawrence

If the American people could express in a single sentence their most important wish today, it would be: "Keep us out of war at any cost."

Lawrence

Yet, when out of a national budget of 77 billion dollars, the President asks for $3,930,000,000 to keep American boys from fighting abroad and calls for a "Mutual Security Program" to bolster our allies, this is derided as a "foreign aid" program or a "give-away."

The label is wrong. It's really a "keep-us-out-of-war" program.

Few of the critics realize the explosive situation that exists in the world today or how interrelated America's fate is with the other free countries — or, if they do realize it, they fail to see how many billions more our defenses would cost if America had to do the job alone. That's why President Eisenhower's television address Monday night was so important to the country.

For the President had no sooner announced last week that he was asking Congress for $3,930,000,000 when from Capitol Hill — mostly from Democrats — came predictions that the expenditure would be cut by a billion. Acting Secretary of State Herter promptly said that if any such reduction were made it would "serve notice on the world that we are weakening in our determination."

JUST WHY some of the legislators regard any money spent abroad as either a gift or a throwaway is hard to understand unless they think the American people really can be misled by such distortions.

Certainly, as sometimes charged, there's waste in the spending of American funds in other countries because the United States cannot always control how other governments disburse the money they receive. But, conceding that there is some waste, it is a fact that in war itself there is even greater waste.

The true test is whether, on the whole, war is prevented and thus far the United States has managed with the help of strong allies to keep us out of a third world war.

It sometimes isn't realized how much America's own allies have been spending since the close of World War II. Rather the impression is fostered by the critics that the United States is putting up all the money for international defense or mutual security.

WHAT PERHAPS isn't generally understood in America is that economic assistance plays a vital role in maintaining the stability of other nations. If there were no stable governments among our allies America would not have strategic bases overseas.

The President said on this point:

"Through the Mutual Security Program our friends among the free world nations make available to us for the use of our forces some 250 bases in the most strategic locations, many of them of vital importance. They support ground forces totaling more than five million men stationed at points where danger of local aggression is most acute, based on their own soil and prepared to defend their own homes.

"They man air forces of about 30,000 aircraft of which nearly 14,000 are jets, 23 times the jet strength of 1950 when the program started. They also have naval forces totaling 2,500 combat vessels with some 1,700 in active fleets or their supporting activities."

Dissenting members of Congress often concede that the military program is logical but they claim the economic support abroad is questionable and this they would cut.

In doing so they would strike a blow at the morale of the countries affected. For without economic stability, political chaos ensues and then the Communists find fertile ground for exploitation or even overthrow of existing governments.

The Communist intrusion in Iraq lately, for example, has unsettled the entire Middle East.

The Communist tactics in Africa, Asia and Latin America have been supported by Soviet measures in the economic field.

So it's a dangerous international situation which calls for American expenditures to bolster here and abroad our defenses — politically, economically and militarily. From a strong alliance, moreover, comes firmness in a crisis as is the case today when Moscow is testing the West.

Professional Mother

By Truman Twill

Nellie is home again.

She is the head mother cat of our establishment. Two of her daughters of recent vintage live there too, but they are apprentices.

Nellie is the pro.

She was a scrawny city kitten when a helping hand brought her to live at our place some years ago. Her age was indeterminate, but she obviously had missed childhood in an alley-cat struggle for existence.

She was dead serious about everything. She became a systematic mouser, chipmunk scourge and rabbit hunter. She never played.

She knew her rights and how to stand on them. She showed no affection for anyone and asked for none.

If a dog wanted to romp, she spit in his eye.

If she was fondled, she was rigid.

She had mastered the household arts, though it seemed improbable anyone ever had taught her about them.

Nellie knew everything she needed to know.

Country living left its mark on her. She put on weight, though she never became large or lazy. Her coal-black fur turned shiny and sleek.

When it became plain the first time that she was about to become a mother, a carton was set in place on top of a basement cupboard, out of harm's way. All that was necessary was to show her where it was; she knew what it was for and in due time used it.

Then and ever since, she has been a professional mother. She has perfect poise and an undeviating sense of duty to her kittens.

She stays with them until they are self-sufficient. Even then, she will bring them a chipmunk or a mouse occasionally and watch them devour it, claiming no part as her own.

No one has kept track of her kitten production, which now is nearing the two-dozen range, though never more than four in a litter—sometimes only three.

While her kittens are growing up, she shows affection not only for them but for everybody else, even dogs. If a kitten is taken away for a few minutes for inspection, she follows it and waits until it is taken back to the kitten box. She is patient but firm.

Nellie knows the maternal ropes.

Between litters she disappears for days and weeks at a time, coming around often enough to maintain her membership in the lodge but otherwise asserting her independence of the Twillery. No one knows where she goes, except that it agrees with her.

Whenever she comes home to stay, it is time to get the box in place and line it with cloth, which she will keep spotlessly clean. Even when she is teaching her kittens to eat meat, there never is any sign in the box of untidiness.

The box is in place again and ready for occupancy.

Nellie is home.

Deep South's Strategy

By Ralph McGill

After the abortive, and somewhat shameful, Dixiecrat antics in 1948, the more thoughtful Deep South political leaders quietly made up their minds not to set foot in that path again if it were at all possible to avoid so doing.

They had been stampeded into the initial action at the Democratic National Convention by some of the more obtuse political mentalities of Alabama and South Carolina. An effort later was made to give the movement some respectability and, more important, some valid reason for being. This never was entirely successful, though the raw edges of it were blurred. It was never possible to hide the fact that the basic motivation for the bolt was one of hate and vindictive impulse. But by putting the chintz of states rights on the windows, some of the ugliness of the initiating spirit was concealed and the presence of an always invisible principle proclaimed.

Despite the fact that in November the Dixiecrat target, Harry S. Truman, lost New York and other key states deemed essential to success, the Dixiecrat bolt was still unable to accomplish its hopes.

THERE WAS A MOVE to drop the senators and congressmen of the bolting states from their committee posts when the Congress was organized. All agreed it should have been done. They had not merely walked out of the Democratic party. They had, upon leaving, sought to defeat the party's nominee. But Harry S. Truman, urged on by House Speaker Sam Rayburn and other stalwarts seeking to obtain unity, sent down the word that the victor could be compassionate and forgiving. It took some persuading. But it was agreed and those who had sought to defeat the party would be given a full share in the victory.

But the practical knew that couldn't be done again. It had been too raw and reckless. The Dixiecrats actually had refused, in some states, to allow the people to vote for the party's nominees. They had ruthlessly suppressed the right of the free ballot.

After the second Eisenhower triumph of 1956, with the accompanying Democratic congressional victory, the Deep South members took stock. They saw that the party's new strength came from outside the South.

Talk began to be heard then that whatever the South did, in the civil rights fight which everyone knew was ahead, there must be no bolt such as that of the Dixiecrats.

After the 1958 triumph, which brought in additional party strength, all of it from the East and West, planning was begun. In the first real conference the idea of what has been called "electoral eunuchs" was advanced. These electors would be neither Republican nor Democratic.

THE STATES wishing to bolt would not really do so. They would refuse to place the name of the party nominees on the ballot. Only names of unpledged electors would be printed as representing the Democratic party. There was then debated whether to try and agree on one regional "favorite son," to whom the electors eventually would go, or whether each state would have its own favorite son.

This question has not yet been resolved. But the "electoral eunuchs" are almost certain to be the strategy in four or five states.

That this will be helpful to the Republicans and may assure that party victory, is undenied.

That such a plan would take away the rights of the citizens to vote for the national nominees through electors pledged to them, also is undenied. But technically, there would be no bolt. Deep South members of the Congress would hope thereby to hold committee positions in the event of a Democratic victory.

THE CONSTITUTION of the United States says simply that the electors shall vote for two persons and that the one receiving the most shall become president. The intent is plain. But a rebellious group presumably could vote for two persons of its choice or refrain from voting at all.

The political morality of thus voiding the right of the people to vote for the national nominees is in question.

Even more questionable is what these states would gain by isolating themselves from the nation's mainstream of politics as provided by a two-party system.

Three Keys to Crisis

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

One of the best kept secrets of 1959—and one of the real keys to the Berlin crisis— is the answer to a question which from now on will be crucial in the news about the Soviet Union, Germany and the West.

Do the Western Allies, despite their public show of solidarity about not budging on Berlin, have anything to offer in the way of ideas that might avoid a military showdown with the Soviets?

It has just been disclosed that the United States has drawn up the outlines of a peace treaty with Germany. Apparently, it is still in very sketchy form.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower hinted Monday night in his nationwide broadcast that the Allies do have new ideas and expect some from the U.S.S.R. He said no more. By his silence he drew a curtain across whatever ideas he has in mind.

This was natural enough, since before the United States unveils any plan it would need approval by France, Britain and West Germany. Lack of such approval would indicate the Allies had split wide open.

Some proposals to the Soviet Union—to avoid war over Berlin and seek instead a peaceful solution—will be at the heart of the discussions here this week between Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

FROM THE beginning there have actually been three keys to the Berlin crisis:

1. How determined were the Soviets to back up their demand that the Allies get their troops out of Berlin? That question still is unanswered.

2. Would the Allies yield to this Soviet demand and withdraw? They already have said they would not.

3. If the U.S.S.R. insists the Allies get out but the Allies won't budge, then the only answer is a military showdown unless the two sides negotiate a settlement. But negotiate on what? What can either side propose that the other will accept?

Nobody in the West has yet been able to say positively why Premier Nikita Khrushchev precipitated the crisis in the first place with his demands against the Allies in Berlin.

SO NO ONE has been able to say positively how far he is willing to go to back up his demands. He himself has suggested negotiations —including a summit conference —to talk things out.

Eisenhower Monday night indicated a willingness to have a summit meeting next summer, but only if developments justify it.

At this moment—when neither the West nor the Soviet Union has yet produced ideas that would seem acceptable to the other—the situation remains frozen on the Soviet demand for the Allies to vacate Berlin and their public refusal to do so.

Unless they start talking, there will have to be a showdown of some kind. Such a showdown, if it comes, will probably be months away, for it is almost certain the two sides first will do some talking.

This is where the basic question comes in again: Talk on what?

Paying Your Income Tax

Attention to Exemptions Can Cut Bill

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every exemption you can justly claim—in filing your 1958 income tax return—means $600 knocked off your income before the remainder can be taxed.

You may also save money by knowing the different rules covering not only husbands and wives but certain widows and widowers as "head of household."

Third of a Series

Start with husbands and wives:

Each person filing a return gets a $600 exemption for himself if he is under 65, $1,200 if he's over 65, and another $600 if he's blind. He gets the same exemptions for his wife if she fits certain rules.

You can claim her exemptions, in addition to your own, if she had no income and you alone file a return or if she files jointly with you, whether or not she had income.

YOUR WIFE must file a return—either separately or jointly with you—if she was under 65 and had $600 income, or $1,200 if she was over 65.

If she files separately, she claims her own exemption on her return and you can't claim any exemption for her on your return.

Hereafter, to avoid repetition about age, we'll talk about people under 65. No one, of course, who had under $600 income has to file a return at all. The same goes for a wife with less than $600 income.

For many taxpayers, exemptions represent the loftiest savings they can make in filing their federal returns. This article, third of a series on the income tax, tells you about the various exemptions you may claim.

But there's a special rule on wives. If your wife had income, no matter how small, but doesn't file jointly with you, you can't claim the $600 exemption for her.

Ordinarily a husband and wife save by filing jointly because of the split method of figuring tax on a joint return.

IF YOU GOT married any time in 1958—even as late as Dec. 31—you can claim the exemption for your wife, provided she meets the requirements listed above.

If your wife died anytime in 1958 and had no income—and if you didn't remarry during the year—you can still claim an exemption for her on your return.

If she died during 1958 and did have income—and if you didn't remarry during the year—you can file a joint return, reporting her income and yours and claiming exemptions for her and yourself.

If you were divorced or legally separated from your wife at the end of the year you may not claim her as an exemption even though you provided more than half her support in 1958.

Certain widows and widowers:

If your wife (or husband) died in 1956 or 1957 you get a tax break—by being allowed to figure your tax in schedule two, page 15 of the form 1040 instruction sheet, which is the same method used by couples filing jointly—provided you fit these rules:

Your wife must have died in 1956 or 1957; you must have been entitled to file a joint return with her for the year in which she died; you have not remarried; you furnish over half the maintenance of your home which, except for temporary absences, is the principal abode of your child or stepchild for whom you claim an exemption.

IF YOU MEET these requirements, figure your tax by including only your income, exemptions, or deductions—no exemption for your deceased spouse. Use tax schedule two on page 15 of the form 1040 instruction sheet or the tax table on page 16 to find your tax rate.

Head of household:

If you qualify as "head of household" you get a lower tax rate than if you filed as a single person. You use schedule 3, page 15, of the instruction sheet, or the tax table, page 16.

You must have been unmarried (or legally separated) as of Dec. 31, 1958; and you must have provided more than half the cost of maintaining a household for the entire year for at least one other person who is related to you. The test varies with the relationship to the other person.

If that person was your mother (or father) she must qualify as your dependent. And you must have maintained a home for her, either in your house or somewhere else. Note: Paying for a parent in a home for the aged is not maintaining a household for her.

If the relative for whom you maintained a household is your unmarried child, grandchild, or stepchild, that child must have lived under the same roof with you, although your child doesn't have to qualify as your dependent.

All other relatives must live with you and qualify as dependents.

Next: Claiming exemptions for dependents.

Search Continues For Lost Plane, 2 Illinois Residents

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol, state police and volunteers took to the air in planes and helicopters again today in a search for two missing Illinois fliers.

A Piper Tri-Pacer with pilot Kenneth D. Reed of Shelbyville, Ill., and passenger Bob Daugherty of Pana, Ill., was the object of the search. It was last reported near Indianapolis Monday night.

Aerial observers searched the area between Indianapolis and Terre Haute Tuesday, and 50 of Daugherty's fellow workers from Illinois plodded over the hills around Greencastle during the night.

Paul Cox Field here was the base for the search. The CAP sent up four planes Tuesday, as did state police. Two members of the Wabash Valley Pilots Assn. also flew in the search.

Reed and Daugherty were flying from Mansfield, Ohio, to Shelbyville.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not writing to receive glory. In fact, this letter will be unsigned because I don't want my identity known. I'm writing just to let you know how a lonely, middle-aged couple found real happiness. Maybe we can give others an idea.

My wife and I were feeling sorry for ourselves the other evening. Then she suddenly said, "Why don't we get a couple of underprivileged children to spend the weekend with us? We could take them for a tour of the city, buy them a few things and show them a good time!"

We became excited just talking about it.

The next day my wife phoned a local welfare agency and was put in touch with an orphanage. We were checked and approved and told when to come for the children.

Ann, we had the time of our lives. Those kids were bug-eyed at everything they saw. The simplest things gave them genuine joy. They raved over my wife's cooking. They were honestly excited over the few little things we bought for them.

I'm sure my wife and I had more fun than the kids. Neither of us have laughed so much in years. In a couple of weeks we're going to take them again.

Time for Change

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think about a husband who keeps an 8x10 picture of his former wife in his office? The odd part of it is, the picture is 11 years old and doesn't look any more like her than I look like Elizabeth Taylor. She is now 40 pound heavier and her hair is a different color.

We've been married four years and have two darling sons. It's embarrassing to go to his office (which I do very seldom) and see that picture, bold as life.

I haven't said one word about it and I don't intend to. I'd appreciate a suggestion from you as to how I can get him to take that thing off the wall without letting him know I feel so deeply about it.—SECOND TRY.

Dear Second Try: Take those two "darling sons" to a portrait studio and have some adorable pictures made—8x10, of course. Ask Dad to select the one he wants for his office. Only the most insensitive clod would hang his sons' picture alongside that of his ex-wife.

Love in Bloom

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter is 21 years of age and engaged be married to a fine young man. They met in college and we like him a great leal.

The trouble is, they are together until 3 o'clock almost every morning. If they go out, he stays till dawn, laughing and talking. You'd think he was leaving for Europe the next day and wouldn't see her for a year.

Am I "old-fashioned" when I say this isn't proper? They won't be married until June. My husband says I shouldn't say anything but this doesn't seem right somehow. Should I keep quiet or express myself? If so, what shall I say? —C.M.

Dear C.M.: A girl 21 is old enough to know when to send her boy friend home. Apparently they are soo - ooo - oooo in love they can't bear to say good night. (Funny how so many of these characters who hang around until dawn can't think of anything so say after they're married!!)

Suggest they keep more respectable hours simply because they "need the rest" — not on moral grounds. Remember they ARE adults and the final decision must be theirs.

Confidentially

TO ABUSED TEEN: If you want your mother to "trust you" I suggest you give her something on which to base that trust. The behavior you've outlined to me wouldn't win any prizes, Toots.

-:-

TO SPIE-EYE: Your daughter knows she can talk him out of his bridgework. Tell him to wise up and stop being a chump.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Marion Star, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Clubwomen Make Plans For Convention in Toledo

Important dates on the spring calendar for members of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs are April 14-16 and May 2-3.

The April dates will take the clubwomen to Toledo where the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs convene for a three-day convention in the Commodore Perry Hotel. Scheduled for May 2 and 3 is the annual fine arts day observance which has been designated as a Community Arts and Crafts Festival.

Plans for these two events and other business made up the agenda for the montly meeting of the federation executive board meeting Tuesday in the Women's Club Home.

Mrs. Smith Witter, president, presided and the devotions on a Lenten theme were by Mrs. Ralph Epley. In keeping with St. Patrick's Day the Federation Ensemble, directed by Mrs. Cecil Davis, sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," with the group joining in the chorus.

MISS ALICE CAULFIELD, vice president will represent the federation at the state convention and a number of local clubwomen will attend one or more sessions. The two-day community festival will be held in the club home under the sponsorship of the Art department. Exhibits will include paintings, sculpture, photography and crafts. Music will include a program on Sunday by the Federation ensemble and there will be organ music on Saturday.

A feature of the festival will be a poetry and short story contest open to all clubwomen. As in former years, members will be asked to contribute flowers and cookies.

Mrs. W. D. McGee, chairman of the community service department, called attention to Ohio House Bill No. 337, providing financial aid for retarded children, which comes up for vote in the Legislature this week. Members are asked to support the bill by writing to Norman A. Fuerst, chairman of the public welfare committee. She also announced a class in the care of sick and injured will be started in the near future under the sponsorship of the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Persons interested should contact the Red Cross office.

Mrs. W. D. Bennett announced that $175.90 was cleared on the rummage sale conducted recently under the sponsorship of the American Home Department. She also announced the letting of a contract for the installation of a furnace in the club cottage at a cost of $473.85.

MRS. JOHN H. CLARK, conservation chairman, gave a brief history of the Glastonbury thorn tree, one of which has been presented to the federation by Cody Hartman, local tree surgeon. The tree is of interest not only because of its beauty but also its rarity.

According to data gathered by Mrs. Clark, it may be seen in only four places, Cleveland, Glastonbury Monastery in Hingham, Mass., the Washington Cathedral grounds in Washington, D.C., and the New York Botanical Gardens.

It has a growth of about 20 feet and bears profuse fragrant flowers, deeply notched foliage and bright red berries. One legend has it that the original thorn tree of Glastonbury grew from the staff of Joseph of Arimathea, struck root, grew and thereafter blossomed not like the ordinary thorn, but at Christmas. It still blossoms in early winter in England.

Another legend is that the tree at Glastonbury Abbey was supposed to blossom whenever visited by a member of the English royalty. It is said that this actually happened twice at the Washington Cathedral in this country, first in November 1919 when the Prince of Wales visited there and again in November 1951 when the present Queen Elizabeth visited the cathedral. The tree in Washington is a scion of the original thorn brought to this country in 1902 from Glastonbury, England.

Miss Helen Kramer, library service chairman, announced National Library Week April 12-18 and called attention to the following books available at the local library: "The Scarlet Feather," a novel of the American frontier by Dale Van Every; "Did She Fall or Was She Pushed?" a mystery story by Doris Miles Disney; "Prize Stories of 1959," edited by Paul Engle; "Elizabeth the Great," by Elizabeth Jenkins; "My Story," an autobiography of Mary Astor; "Lee of Virginia," by Douglas Southall Freeman; "Memoirs of the Second World War," by Winston Churchill; "The Life of Christ" by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, "The First Easter," by Peter Marshall and edited by his wife. She also listed books for Easter reading and travel.

Miss Effie Oliphant, International Relations chairman, highlighted world problems and called attention to the speech made by President Eisenhower on Tuesday night.

Mrs. John Stuckey of the Junior Federated Club announced 12 members will attend the state convention and also that five members attended the Legislation Day program at Loudonville recently. The club will sponsor a "tasting tea" Saturday, April 4, in the club home.

Other federation activities include a guest day sponsored by the American Home department April 9 at which time there will be a program on hair styling; a talk by Miss Lodemia Weaver, case worker in the County Welfare department this afternoon under the sponsorship of the Community Service department, and a book review by Mrs. Rolland Augenstein April 7, sponsored by the Literature department.

Senate Committee Wrecks Ike's Hopes for Balanced Budget

Takes Action On Funds for World Bank

Hike of $1.3 Billion To Come Out of Next Year's Appropriation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, approving more U.S. funds for the World Bank and International Monetary Fund, has specified they are to come out of next year's budget.

The action, by unanimous vote Tuesday, would wreck President Eisenhower's hopes of a balanced budget for the year beginning July 1. The President had asked for the funds for the current fiscal year, and had included the spending in the deficit of nearly 13 billion dollars he forecast for the fiscal year ending June 30.

For the next year, Eisenhower submitted a budget precariously balanced on the assumption that Congress would provide increased gasoline taxes and postal revenues, actions that now seem unlikely.

But the Senate Committee, approving the proposed $1,375,000,000 increase in the U.S. subscription to the International Monetary Fund, specified it shall come out of the new budget.

A proposed increase of $3,175,000,000 in capital stock of the World Bank would not affect the budget directly.

Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois expressed surprise at the committee's action. He said that if this means the Treasury must pay out $1,375,000,000 additional in the year beginning July 1, "obviously it means the budget will be unbalanced."

2. The school must be in session at least 160 days a year. (State law requires 176 days.)

3. The local district may decide if Ohio history is to be taught.

4. No science is to be taught (Explained Hershberger): "We do not believe in the monkey theory of man."

Hershberger also testified why the United States flag is not displayed in Amish classrooms: "We believe in government under God but we believe that God is above the state. We feel it is our patriotic duty to resist any unjust laws."

Joni Hershberger, superintendent of Amish schools in Hardin County, was asked at the hearing: "Do you believe you don't have to obey the laws of the state if contary to your religious convictions?" Yes, he replied, he could not uphold laws contrary to religious conviction.

O'Kelly Addresses Congress

Irish Will Work To End Suspicions, Leader Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Sean T. O'Kelly of Ireland told a joint session of Congress today Ireland will work to dissipate unnecessary suspicions among nations of the world.

The 76-year-old Irish President is the first to make an official U.S. visit.

"One of the dangers that confront mankind is an exacerbated antagonism between the so-called colonial and anti-colonial countries," he said in his prepared address.

"As well as being a European country, Ireland is also a country with a long and a well-known history of stubborn resistance to foreign rule.

"In that position, Ireland can hope to play in the United Nations and elsewhere a useful part, by helping to dissipate unnecessary suspicions, and seeking to create a better climate for international understanding."

O'Kelly, whom President Eisenhower greeted Tuesday as "the president of all of us," said his appearance before Congress is among the proudest experiences of his life."

He recalled that Charles Stewart Parnell, the Irish patriot, addressed Congress in 1880. He said Parnell took back to Ireland the knowledge that "America as a whole, represented in Congress, looked with sympathy on Ireland's struggle for freedom."

O'Kelly said Ireland still faces "the great and challenging problem of partition," with six Northern counties loyal to Britain.

He beamed his way, flashing Irish charm and wit, through a busy day. It included somber ceremonies like laying a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns and frolicsome occasions like a reception by capital newsmen and a dinner at the White House with the Eisenhowers.

O'Kelly and his wife will leave Washington Thursday afternoon for New York City, New England, the Midwest and East before returning to Ireland March 31.

Annual Pancake and Sausage Supper Held by Scottish Rite

Approximately 250 members were present for the annual pancake and sausage supper of the Marion County Scottish Rite Club, sponsored by the Valley of Columbus, at the Masonic Temple Tuesday night.

Following the supper the group was addressed by Andrew J. White Jr. of Columbus, junior past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Ohio and soverign prince of Franklin Council, Princes of Jerusalem of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the Valley of Columbus.

Senior member of the Columbus law firm of Knepper, White, Richards, Miller and Roberts, Mr. White spoke on the subject, "A Brace and Bit To Bore a Quarter-Inch Hole," in which he cited various reasons why men petition for membership in the Masonic fraternity.

The invocation was given by the Rev. V. E. Busler, and Harold J. Grigsby, president of the local club, presided for the meeting and introduced Mr. White. He also presented Ralph E. Carhart of Marion who introduced the following distinguished Masons who were present for the meeting:

George R. Fitez, Rufus M. Shockey, Henry P. Howe, W. Rex Davis, Eugene C. McGuire, Robert W. Taylor, Carroll H. Vance, John Pace, Earnest H. Sellers, Charles P. Clark, George Van Gilder, Roy L. Wildermuth Sr., Emmery Bender, Earl J. Brothers, J. Allen Pyne, of Columbus; Walter R. Hessenauer and Charles K. Cunningham, Galion; William F. Blinn, Bellefontaine; Charles R. Announcement was made of the spring reunion of the Valley of Columbus which will be held April 15, 16 and 17.

Chris Turoff and Francis Roush, members of the local club, with the assistance of the women of the White Shrine, prepared and served the supper.

Rocket Expert

Space maintenance, supply and rescue ships, all manned.

Automatic television controls which, in a 24-hour orbit at an altitude of 24,000 miles, could cover the earth's surface with but three stations.

Exploration of the moon with automatic devices.

MR. DORNBERGER warned, however, that cost of a moon exploration trip might run as high as 1½ billion dollars.

"Beyond the moon we will not go," he said. He brushed aside stories of trips to Venus by saying that "to send a man to Venus — even if we could bring him back — would cost about 2½ billion dollars. And what could he bring back? One pound of carbon dioxide, the most expensive pound of carbon dioxide in the world."

Well-schooled in rocketry during some 15 years of rocket development in Germany, the stocky scientist said one of the biggest obstacles to space exploration today is the re-entry problem.

During World War II, the German V2 rocket he helped develop had a re-entry speed 5½ times the speed of sound and 50 per cent of them broke apart, he said. Now the re-entry speed is 18 times the speed of sound and the same problem is plaguing modern rockets.

"Never will a vehicle after a perfect flight through space come back and give us all the information we want before we have solved this problem 100 per cent," he said.

THE VAN ALLEN radiation belt, which begins 620 miles high and extends to an altitude of nearly 250,000 miles, "will postpone for a short time use of the moon as a space station," said Mr. Dornberger. In time, however, "human inventiveness will break through all cosmic problems," he added.

He said Russia may score first on three of four "fundamental prestige" factors. He listed them as sending a satellite around the globe, development of efficient escape velocity and putting a man into orbit and landing him safely.

But the U.S. has a chance to triumph on the fourth factor, he asserted, and that is development of a manned space craft "capable of landing safely on the moon or any planet."

"When captured by the Americans in 1945, I wrote this," he said: "'The nation with the first manned satellite around the globe will lead the way into space.'"

The latest information is that the Russians will try to put a man into space and bring him back within this year, he said.

—:—

THE ROCKET expert was more grave in his discussion of upcoming military developments.

He said the current standoff created by greatly increased offenses and defenses will be continued in the form of space triumphs.

"But if we don't go higher and higher and fly faster and faster" we will have no defense, he warned.

He said that if the U.S. reaches the point where it can put a man in space and land him within a 20-mile radius of a given point, "what's to stop the Russians from putting an H-bomb down the same way?"

This country's present early warning system is now inadequate, he said, even though radar can detect a rocket approaching from as far as 2,000 miles.

That leaves very little time and it becomes necessary somehow to disengage its nose cone by interception, a task he described as extremely difficult.

"We have to know when they prepare to launch their rocket and when the first ignition takes place," he declared.

To do that, the country will need reconnaisance satellites and space command posts from which we can retaliate, he said.

Mr. Dornberger stressed throughout his talk that the full benefits of space can never be derived by automation alone. "Without the reasoning power of man we can never utilize space," he said.

The speaker was introduced by Raymond P. Whitman Jr., project engineer at Whirlpool, who served as chairman for the seminar.

The 63-year-old scientist, who now serves as technical assistant to the president of Bell Aircraft, was division chief for rocket development with the German Board of Ordnance from 1932-45. He also was commanding officer of the rocket development center at Peenemunde, Germany, where the V-1 and V-2 rockets and supersonic antiaircraft weapons were born.

In 1944 he was appointed special commissioner for all V-weapons and antiaircraft guided missiles. He held the rank of major general when captured by the allies in 1945.

Program on Portland Cement Presented for Local Builders

A brief talk, a slide show and a sound motion picture on Portland cement and its uses were featured at the regular meeting of the Marion Builders Associates Tuesday night at Lee's Steak House.

The program was presented by Joseph Warnes of Columbus, an engineer and member of the Portland Cement Association.

Contributions Voted

In other business, the builders voted to contribute $25 to the annual school patrol trip to Washington again this year and in another action voted to donate $50 to provide groceries for a needy family of six.

There also was a discussion on a proposal that the local group become affiliated with the state and national building associations. It was noted that a minimum of 15 builder members is required to charter a local club in the state and national organizations.

George Scantland, program chairman, called attention to a public meeting of the Marion Township trustees slated tonight in the trustees' offices above the Marion County Bank. Purpose of the meeting will be to decide on a proposed rezoning of some surplus government property in the former Scioto Ordnance plant area for use for industrial purposes.

Attendance Urged

Mr. Scantland urged all who are interested in the progress and welfare of Marion to attend the meeting. He said the rezoning is essential if industry is to grow here.

Prior to his slide and motion picture show, Mr. Warnes pointed out that the Portland Cement Association is national in scope and represents nearly all manufacturers of Portland cement. The association does most of the research for the manufacturers in a laboratory in Chicago, he said.

In other business a nominating committee consisting of Merritt Williams, James Weaver and Robert Langdon was appointed by Max Haines, president.

Guests were Thomas Taylor and Charles Martin.

City Income Tax

An ordinance to establish the positions of two deputy tax collectors and two clerks.

The proposal calls for the city auditor to serve as director of the income tax department and the companion legislation is to establish the four additional positions to man the department, Mr. Smith said.

Legal work in preparing the six pieces of legislation was done by City Solicitor Riley Hall and J. Emerson Davis and Co. by direction of the finance committee of council, Mr. Smith said.

Most for Capital Use

Under the priority schedule established by the council committee, some 73 per cent of all money collected, after payment of collection and administration costs, would go for capital improvements in the city, Mr. Hall pointed out.

The tax as proposed applies to gross earnings of individuals and net profits of businesses.

This means that earnings of an individual would be taxed before deductions. But, because the tax is on earned income only, income from such things as unemployment compensation, interest on stocks and bonds, dividends and pensions would not be taxed.

Mr. Hall pointed out that taxation of certain types of income has been pre-empted by the state government, meaning that the city can not impose a tax on these types of income. Among these are interest income from stocks and bonds and utility company profits, he said.

Also exempted would be the first $100 per month of gross rental income collected by property owners.

Mr. Smith explained that this is to protect the small property owner who perhaps has converted his home into a duplex to provide a source of income after retirement.

Large property owners who have several properties would still pay the tax on all income received after the first $100 a month, he explained.

Cites Example

The tax would be imposed on all persons who reside or work in the city, Mr. Hall said.

However, any non-resident who has earnings in Marion but lives in another community having an income tax would be required to pay only that amount of the Marion tax that is in excess of the tax in his home community, he said.

For example, if a person having earnings in Marion resides in a community that has an income tax of four-tenths of one per cent, he would be required to pay Marion only two-tenths of one per cent of his gross earnings. If the tax in his home community were greater or the same as the tax in Marion, then he would not be required to pay any tax to Marion, Mr. Hall said.

By the same token, any resident of Marion employed in another community having an income tax would pay the Marion tax first, Mr. Hall added.

"The community in which the person resides has first priority in the collection of the income tax;" he said.

Mr. Smith pointed out that in the last two years, the city general fund has been running "in the red." He said that more money is being expended from the general fund than is being received into it. This has been possible because of a surplus which now is depleted, he said.

Major Hackett Given Marion Depot Position

The assignment of Maj. William Hackett of Cleveland as assistant for storage operations at the Marion Engineer Depot was announced today by Col. John F. Phelan, depot commander.

Maj. Hackett will replace Maj. Myron O. Seevers who has been named assistant in charge of depot operations here.

A native of Cleveland, Maj. Hackett has been in the Army 16 years. He has seen overseas duty in Europe, Alaska, Japan and Korea.

The new official is residing at the depot. His wife and two children will join him at the end of the school year. The family will reside in the staff area of the Engineer Depot.

Maj. Seevers, stationed at the depot since March 1958, held the post of assistant for administration until this promotion. He has 17 years of service with the Army.

His last assignment before coming to the depot was with a military assistant advisory group in Viet Nam. He has been stationed also in Canada, the Panama Canal Zone and in Europe.

Maj. Seevers is married and has five children. The family resides in the staff area at the depot.

The charges were filed by seven Morrow County farmers who last week identified sheep and cattle found on a farm occupied by Dr. Pope as belonging to them.

The doctor pleaded not guilty to all seven new charges and was bound over to the grand jury under $10,000 bond. He furnished bond and was released.

The third suspect in the case, Charles Miller, 18, of near Cardington, is in Mansfield Reformatory. He was sentenced last month by Delaware County Common Pleas Judge O. W. Whitney Jr. as a probation violator. He had been convicted last year on a breaking and entering charge and given probation.

He probably will not face the larceny charges here until after finishing his term in Mansfield.

The grand jury last week charged that High and Miller stole the livestock and sold them to Dr. Pope for $10 a head.

Cleo Ludwig Hurt in Crash

Cleo R. Ludwig of the Delaware Pike south of Marion was injured in a traffic accident near Mansfield Tuesday.

He suffered lacerations of the chin, possible chest and stomach injuries and abrasions of the left knee when his car and a truck collided. He was taken to Crestline Memorial Hospital for treatment and was to be released today.

The accident occurred at 8:15 a.m. on Rt. 314 about 5 miles west of Mansfield and just south of the Rt. 30-S intersection, state patrolmen from the Mansfield post reported.

They said Ludwig was making a right turn through a railroad bridge underpass when his car skidded into the path of an oncoming tractor - trailer driven by Delmer W. Herbert, 32, of near Greensburg, Ind.

quire immunization that may be developed in the future against diseases other than the five specified in the proposed law.

The present statute does not spell out specific ailments, but applies to any communicable disease.

A bill of far-reaching importance in damage suits was recommended for passage by the House Judiciary Committee. Co-sponsored by Rep. A. G. Lancione (D-Belmont), it would allow juries to divide blame between both parties to the suit.

Present law is based on the theory that if the person who brings the suit is negligent in any degree, he cannot collect damages from the defendant. In practice, juries often modify this rule.

The Lancione measure would let juries determine the total amount of damages due and what percentage of them should be charged to the plaintiff and the defendant.

Other committee action Tuesday included:

Approval by the House Health Committee of a bill to increase medical license fees from $25 to $50 for newly licensed doctors and from $50 to $100 for doctors licensed in other states who come to Ohio to practice.

Approval by the House Judiciary Committee of a bill sponsored by Rep. Joseph E. Lady (R-Hardin) to prohibit profane language and molesting on telephone.

The bill would require telephone companies to print reminders of the law in their directories as a deterrent to violations and would help law enforcement officials in prosecuting violators.

Scheduled hearings on a number of other bills were canceled for lack of time after a long Democratic caucus. Among them were measures on township boundaries and annexation procedures sponsored by Rep. Bernice K. Mackenzie (D-Stark).

Raises

money to pay the amount due on a recent real estate reappraisal, thus freeing some $8,700 which could be used in pay raises.

"But that's encumbered money," said Mr. Keil, "and we don't think it would be good business to borrow to pay what's due to those people (the Cole - Layer - Trumble Co.)."

"We have to be fair to these other employes," he continued. "After all, the money he (the auditor) is using is county money."

Prosecutor Robert O. Stout, who has been asked to rule on whether any funds appropriated to the auditor can be recalled, had not given the commissioners anything conclusive this morning, Mr. Keil said.

The prosecutor said yesterday that there is nothing to indicate Mr. Clements was acting illegally in granting the raises since department heads normally have jurisdiction over funds appropriated by the commissioners.

The pay raise issue boiled to the surface Saturday when County Treasurer Marion Hinklin informed the commissioners that raises had been granted to members of the auditor's staff.

This touched off a meeting of all elected officials and the commissioners Monday afternoon. All officials who requested raises for their employes were turned down on grounds that the 1959 appropriations could not be spread that thin.

Monday's meeting was followed rapidly by employe pay raise requests from Mr. Hinklin and Judge Edward J. Ruzzo.

Mr. Keil pointed out that the judge's request for $30 a month for six Juvenile and Probate Court employes must be granted according to state law. Any other requests, however, will be deferred at least until the prosecutor returns a ruling, he said.

Land

would not be put to its best use as a dump.

Mr. Hall said Mr. Rhoten was passing on to the city a ruling the department had received from the federal government.

The city made its application for the land last month. Soon afterwards, Grand Prairie Township residents began circulating petitions of protest which were submitted to the Columbus office together with a formal resolution of protest from the trustees.

The triangular tract of land, situated just east of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the southern edge of the township, is part of the old Scioto Ordnance land which the General Services Administration plans to make available at public auction.

The trustees listed as their main objection to the proposed dump the proximity of residential developments.

FROZEN FORECASTER

ANADARKO, Okla. (AP) — Bill Dunlap, who checks temperatures for the weather bureau here, couldn't do so one cold morning. The door of his weather station was frozen shut.

Temperature Plunges To 10-Degree Low Here

"Real cool" best describes the Marion County weather for the 24-hours ending at 7:30 a.m. today.

The mercury rose to a high of only 32 Tuesday, then fell to an overnight low of 10. Those two extremes made that 24-hour period the coldest here since Feb. 20, when that day's high of 20 was followed by an overnight low of 10.

By 7:30 this morning the thermometer had managed to read only 14; but by noon the mercury languished sluggishly at the 25-degree mark.

The weatherman predicted a high today of 35, with tonight's low perhaps 24. Thursday should be partly cloudy and warmer.

Soil Sometimes Is Overworked, Williams Says

Plowing and Planting May Be Answer to Packing of Ground

Are farmers doing more harm than good by overworking fields with today's ponderous machinery?

That's a question that has long plagued soil conservationists and others interested in the element that grows the nation's crops.

W. L. Williams, head of the Marion County Soil Conservation District office, points out that perhaps there will come a day when corn, for example, will be universally planted as the ground is plowed.

A New Idea

"I don't know whether or not that proposed practice is exactly the answer to this problem of overworking soil, but at least it is an idea that is getting considerable attention," he declares.

Mr. Williams points to an experiment undertaken by Ray Cook, of the faculty of Michigan State University, wherein corn was produced with two trips over a field.

Researcher Cook plowed and planted in one operation the first time over, harvested the crop in the second sweep. The result: corn that made 103 bushels an acre.

The MSU scientist estimated that the practice saved from $6 to $10 an acre over the conventional operation of plowing, discing, dragging, planting and cultivating one to three times.

Mr. Cook fertilized as he planted and also sprayed the ground with 2,4-D, covering both the rows and between the rows.

Advantage Cited

Suggests Conservationist Williams: "There is no question but what this practice saved considerable packing of the soil, thereby preventing the sealing of the surface, which normally keeps rainfall from permeating the subsoil."

He further points out that although a good deal of ground is worked when wet, experimental tests show conclusively that such practices can reduce a corn yield by as much as 9 bushels an acre.

"We are working our land too much," Mr. Williams emphasized, adding: "There is no question about the harm that is being done, to say nothing of the excessive and unnecessary cost. What the alternative will be is problematical. Some farmers have expressed a disfavor with the plow-plant idea. But the success of it shows that costs can be cut, yields maintained and even increased, and land can materially benefit."

Record Set for Junior Holstein Memberships

A record high of 2,086 qualified 4-H and vocational agriculture students were admitted to junior memberships in the Holstein-Friesian Association of America in 1958, according to a report from the association.

New York led the field with 323 members, while Pennsylvania was second with 257 new junior sign-ups. Ohio came in third with 229, while Wisconsin and Michigan were fourth and fifth with respective totals of 158 and 132.

The junior program was established in 1923, and is open to both boys and girls owning at least one registered Holstein.

To date, 25,637 young Holsetin breeders have taken advantage of the program.

MCI Featuring Unique Swine Project

All Pork Produced Supplies Tables At Institution

By ALLAN BOVEY
Marion Star Farm Editor

Few Marion Countians, it is safe to say, are cognizant of the scope of the farm program being carried on by the Marion Correctional Institution.

But effective and profitable program includes a swine and beef feeding enterprise, the keeping of 600 chickens and the cultivation of the biggest share of the farm's 1,243 acres, which, among other things, includes 40 acres of garden.

In charge of it all is Archie Cochran onetime vocational agricultural teacher in the Prospect, Waldo and Claridon schools, who is presently in his ninth year as farm manager for the MCI agriculture setup.

ALTHOUGH THE farm carries on a four-year rotation plan in the fields, perhaps one of Mr. Cochran's most significant chores is keeping tabs on the swine program, the facilities of which were supplemented last summer by the construction of a new farrowing house, 128 by 28 feet, and a feeding barn, 166 by 36.

In specific charge of this phase of the MCI farm interest is Frank (Shorty) Ewing Jr., for seven years the institution's swine herdsman. Mr. Ewing is assisted by 14 honor inmates of the prison.

The real feature of the new setup is the farrowing house, in which are pens and completely modern accommodations for 30 sows. Each pen is 6 by 8-feet in size, with a rear section divided off to enable small pigs to get in under the protection of heat lamps.

Each pen has its own feed and water tank, both of which are filled by hand. "We put up this building without thought of automation," Mr. Cochran says, adding, without humor: "We have no labor problem."

The floor of the building is concrete, with ground corn cobs used as bedding. Panels are of steel pipe and plans are afoot to equip each pen with a permanent farrowing crate, the sides of which can be opened after pigs are born to furnish a triangular haven for them and provide a space therein to hang a heat lamp.

THE BUILDING is thermostatically heated to a temperature of between 55 and 60 degrees by means of six space heaters.

The situation at MCI is unique in that everything raised on the farm is utilized by the institution's inmates. No produce is put on the market in competition with that raised by other farmers. "There was a time when we did, occasionally, have small surpluses. We sent that residue to Columbus to be used at the penitentiary," Archie notes.

MCI's swine set up today is roughly twice as big as it was two years ago. Why? Because the institution wants to cut down on its outside purchases of foodstuffs. At present, the farm furnishes about 675 head of hogs a year for inmate use. The future goal: 1,260 head.

The farm supplies 25 head of hogs for the institution tables every other month. All butchering is done at the prison farm near London, O.

The gilts, largely Hampshires crossed wth Duroc boars, are kept for one litter. After the pigs are weaned, their mothers are put on a feed of garbage from the institution and supplment, fattened to an average weight of between 220 and 250 pounds, then slaughtered. "We feel gilts are easier to handle than sows, and that a gilt at the age she is killed is still pretty good eating," the manager says.

Replacements for the herd are selected from each pig crop by Mr. Ewing, his choices based on the farrowing record of each gilt.

THE MCI program calls for 30 gilts to farrow every other month. They are moved to the feeding out barn shortly before the pigs are weaned and are carried along on corn and grain for a short time before being shifted to the garbage-supplement diet.

Future plans call for another barn. If and when it is a reality, the present feed barn would become a nursery for gilts and pigs.

Mr. Cochran observes that hogs fed out for the MCI tables go on garbage at a weight of about 150 pounds.

He makes a special point of emphasizing that records are kept on the entire farm operation. "We send not only a yearly report to Columbus, but also one every month," he declares, adding: "If we cannot raise our own produce cheaper than it can be bought, someone wants to know why."

Incidental, but of significant importance to the swine program is one involving beef. The farm supplies nine head every other week for MCI meals. The cattle are shipped in as feeders from Kansas City and fattened on institution-raised feed.

THE BIG PLAN for the future calls for a 100-cow dairy setup. The arrival of this phase of an agriculture enterprise will signal an end to the beef cattle, since as Mr. Cochran points out, "we would have competition for use of the grain we raise."

How did Archie get into this type of business? He notes that when he first took over the job, plans were to maintain the institution on the order of an industrial training school for wayward boys. "But," he said "the post-war increase in the number of older lawbreakers led to making MCI a branch of the penitentiary at Columbus. But, I liked the work and have stuck on."

Concludes Manager Cochran: "We're farming for a profit. So far we're accomplishing that end. It looks like we'll always have a ready market for our produce."

MAKING THE WHEELS TURN. The farm program at the Marion Correctional Institution includes, among other things, a swine setup that goes a long way toward furnishing all the meat for the MCI tables. Two men are primarily responsible for keeping the machinery humming.

UPPER: In charge of the 1,243-acre place as farm manager is Archie Cochran, onetime vocational agriculture teacher in the county, shown going over one of the many record books necessary for any profitable business today. Mr. Cochran must report on the farm's progress each month to prison authorities in Columbus.

LOWER: Chief in charge of the hog program under Mr. Cochran is Frank (Shorty) Ewing Jr., pictured with one of the crossbred gilts and litters in the institution's new farrowing building. Herdsman Ewing is overseer of a setup that calls for 30 gilts to farrow every other month. The building, raised last summer, is completely modern. This litter was one of the first to be farrowed in the new facility. The space at the rear of the pen contains the heat lamp and provides an area for pigs to get away from the gilt.

Tax Price List Is Explained By FB's Hinkle

Many farmers have been confused by the livestock and produce price list which has been published as an "aid" to making out income tax returns for 1959.

Some, according to Lyle Hinkle, have the mistaken notion they are obligated to accept the figures therein as gospel when making out returns.

"This," the Marion County Farm Bureau organizational director pointed out this week, "is simply not so." "The list," he emphasize "is simply a guide for the farmers' use."

Mr. Hinkle pointed out that if any operator has reason to believe his animals and-or products are of less value than indicated on the list of minimum totals set forth by the tax commission, he may list the price he feels represents the true value.

He should, however, indicate, too the reasons for his action, attaching same to his tax form.

These estimates will be reviewed by both the county auditor and the state tax commission. In the event that the farmer's claim is not deemed valid, he will be assessed for the additional tax, based on the suggested lists, Mr. Hinkle noted.

Livestock Feeders To Hear Terhune At Dinner Friday

Friday night, at long last, is the night.

The annual Marion County Livestock Feeders meeting and banquet, formerly slated for March 3 but postponed because of Marion County Tournament basketball action, will be held at 7 p.m. in the Prospect School.

Speaker for the program will be R. H. Terhune, Ohio director of agriculture, who will talk on the subject, "Agricultural Indigestion."

Special guests for the fete will be the buyers at the 1958 Marion County Livestock Show and Sale, whose invitations have been extended "as a token of our appreciation for their support of the sale."

Mr. Terhune, a native of the Hoosier state, is an alumnus of Ohio State University, where he was, among other things, heavyweight boxing champion and a member of the Buckeye grid squad. He is presently working on a Ph. D. in agronomy.

13-Year-Old Ewe Is Still Producing

PRIZE OF THE FLOCK. Every sheep flock has one or two outstanding members. And there are always those that rank as exceptionally good ones. Harold Isler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Isler of Prospect Township, holds a 13-year-old Shropshire ewe that has really outdone herself. In 11 lactations she has produced a total of 22 lambs. Only once did she have a single birth, and she made up for that by having triplets on another occasion. Is her productivity outstanding? "It sure is," declares one of Marion County's veterinarians, who observes that a sheep, the life expectancy of which is roughly 7 years, would be equivalent, at 13 years of age, to a 100-year-old person. "A sheep still productive at that age is indeed a remarkable animal," he says. The ewe is one of a flock of 100 maintained on the Isler farm. This year's twins also are being held by Harold. The "black sheep" in the corner belonged to another less illustrious member of the flock.

Angus Board's Action Against Breeder Sticks

The board of directors of the American Angus Association, in a special meeting in St. Joseph, Mo., Friday, reaffirmed its stand barring a purebred heifer owned by Ralph L. Smith of near Chillicothe, Mo., from any competition involving the payment of premiums furnished by the Angus organization.

However, a simular ruling against Mr. Smith himself was terminated.

The action of the board follows that taken by a Buchanan County, Mo. circuit court some weeks ago, which denied the application for an injunction against the American Angus group filed by Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith's move was made after he and his heifer were disqualified at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago in December.

The disqualification was based on charges of "unethical practices" in the fitting out of the heifer, as lodged by the association. The animal was thought to have been doped prior to the showing.

Any further action against the Missouri- breeder was postponed until the June meeting of the association, at which time Mr. Smith will be invited to appear before the association in person.

Choice Is Unanimous

Kansas City, Kan., Gets Nod as Hall of Fame Site

The Agricultural Hall of Fame, proposed as a material tribute to those who have furthered the progress of agriculture in this country, will be located at Kansas City, Kan.

The Kansas locality was selected unanimously, thereby eliminating Springfield, Ill., as the other possible site.

Kansas City will provide an area comprising 362 acres for the Hall and the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce has obtained options on an addition 304 acres. Governor George Docking has offered the full support of his office and all state agencies in making the Hall a reality in the Wheat state.

THE NEXT step is to raise $5,000,000 for the project. The Missouri-Kansas area will be called upon to raise $3,000,000, with a projected $1,750,000 to $2,000,000 originating in the Kansas City area itself.

Final selection of the midwestern locale was not come about without considerable consideration. Literally hundreds of persons throughout the country expressed opinions as to where such a Hall should be located. One petition for Kansas City carried the names of 14,000 petitioners.

What finally brought about the decision of the board making the selection? Joseph Radotinsky, an architect who had been retained to consider the sites, observed that there was evidence that flood water might cover up to one-fourth of the Springfield site. This was, at length, what decided the board members in favor of the Kansas location.

THE MEETING was held in Kansas City, with the Hall of Fame president, Howard A. Cowden, in charge.

Kansas Senator Frank Carlson will now seek a federal charter for the memorial.

Mr. Cowden and Mr. Radolinsky have agreed to make a trip to Europe at their own expense to look over several outdoor museums and agricultural exhibits. Principal stopping points will be Copenhagen, Stockholm and Moscow.

The next meeting of the board of governors will be held May 25 in Kansas City.

OAES Releases Dates For Seven Field Days

Seven annual field day events have been scheduled for this year by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station in Wooster.

The first is Greenhouse Day, set for May 7. Small Fruits Day will be an event of June 18, with Animal and Poultry Health Day set for July 7.

Orchard and Field Crops Day will be held July 30 at Canfield, with the Ohio Pesticide Institute set for Aug. 11 and 12.

Dairy Day will be staged Aug. 14 at Castalia, with Lawn and Ornamental Day a two-day affair, Sept. 22 and 23.

26 County Farms Had Soil Surveys Completed in 1958

Just under half of Marion County has been mapped by the Marion County Soil Conservation District, according to W. L. Williams, head of the local soils office.

A total of 4,847 acres on 26 of the county's farms were mapped in 1958, Conservationist Williams notes, bringing to 95,105 acres the number mapped since the district was established in 1954. That acreage comprises 43 per cent of the land area in the county.

Soil surveys, Mr. Williams points out, are prepared by Francisco Matanzo, soil scientist located in Delaware.

Purpose of the maps is to adequately evaluate farm land in terms of drainage needs, rotation plans and soils structures when setting up conservation practices.

Farm-Home Week Slated March 24-26

The 47th annual program of Farm and Home Week will be held March 24-26 in the Ohio State University campus.

Theme of this year's show is "Ohio Looks Ahead," with the OSU college of agriculture and home economics, agricultural extension service and Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station cooperating in the sponsorship of the fete.

Exhibits, talks, discussions and special programs will highlight the three-day program.

One of the features of the show will be the appearance of John Strohm, noted farm writer, who will discuss "Food, Farms and Fallacies," as associated with Russia and Communist China today. His talk, which will be illustrated with colored motion pictures, will be an event of 10 to 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Hub of the activities will be the Ohio Union, with 11 other buildings on the campus utilized for the several aspects of the festivities.

Iowan Urges Selling Swine At 220 Pounds

That hogs should be marketed at weights of 220 pounds or less is a theory firmly agreed upon, in all probability, by a majority of the nation's prominent swine producers. But, there are still some die-hards.

Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College agricultural economist, explains once more why hogs fed to over the 220-pound weight are likely to lose the farmer money.

He points out if you have a hog ready to go at 220 pounds, say, in February, but elect to feed him to 270 pounds and sell him for two cents less a pound in March, your total income for the hog would be increased by $3.10.

But, if it took the equivalent of four bushels of corn to put on that extra 50 pounds, you would have shoveled dollar corn for a month for a 77-cents-a-bushel return. And, you would have the death risk in the bargain.

"That," Economist Kutish declares, "is figuring only a two cent drop. It could very well be more."

Moral of the story: market at 220 pounds. That's where the potential is still on the farmer's side.

Production Mark Set by Iowa Cow

An Iowa Holstein cow has set a new production record for producers 14 years old and more.

Constance Korndyke Veeman, belonging to a herd near Ruthven, recently completed a 365-day production record of 25,409 pounds of milk and 976 pounds of butterfat on a twice-a-day milking schedule.

The previous mark was 21,938 pounds of milk and 915 pounds of fat, set back in 1956 by a Holstein belonging to a Montpelier, O., dairyman.

The Hawkeye cow averaged 70 pounds of milk (over 33 quarts) a day for the entire year, a production more than four times the national average. She started her record at 14 years, 10 months, better than twice the life span of the average dairy cow.

Winterhalter Wins First Team All-Ohio Ranking

Tiffin, Upper Aces Take Cage Honors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Five youngsters from widely scattered spots today won scholastic basketball's greatest honor—membership on The Associated Press 1959 All-Ohio Class AA high school team.

Two of them—Ken Glenn of state champion Cleveland East Tech, and Benny Roberts of Middletown—will see action this weekend in the state tournament. Woody Dietch, second team choice from Salem, and Jim Stone of East Tech, a third team nominee, also will be on hand—along with four from the honorable mention list.

Averages 115 Points

The first team has everything. The quintet averages 6-4 in height, scored at an average of 115 points for the pre-tourney campaign on which the selections are based—and all are top-flight students.

Picked from more than 10,000 youngsters on the rosters of the 412 Class AA schools, the first five figure out as 2000-to-1 choices. They were selected with the aid of hundreds of coaches, officials, and sports writers from newspaper and radio-television stations.

Paul Winterhalter, a 6-2 straight-A student at Tiffin Calvert, won a first string berth as a reward for his all-around play and scoring ability. Paul, high scorer in class AA scored 635 points in 19 games for a 33.4 average. Dick Reasbeck of Bellaire St. John, tagged as the best of the talent in the eastern sector, had a 27.8 average.

Glenn was the big cog in the East Tech machine which has rolled over 49 straight opponents.

Leads Ohio Squad

Elijah Chatman, 6-4 rebounding star of Akron Central, lowest scorer on the All-Ohio—but high scorer on the well-balanced team which went through the regular season unbeaten — was a standout choice. So was Benny Roberts, only returning member of last year's Middletown team, who steered the Butler countians right back to the state tournament in one of the year's big surprises.

Ed Ferguson and Lemoyne Porter of East Tech, Lou Slaby of Salem, and Ray Wolford of Toledo Scott were named to the honorable mention list — and all will be on display in St. John Arena this weekend in the battle for the state title now held by East Tech.

Johnny Hehr, 5-8 senior sparkplug for Upper Sandusky's surprising Rams, was awarded an honorable mention rating. Hehr, a senior, was one of the main cogs in Coach Ed Fisher's squad which posted a 17-2 record.

Hehr and Winterhalter saw action in the Marion Sectional Class AA tournament as well as Fred Lehr, Mansfield Tyger scoring whiz who also won an honorable mention rating. Others winning honorable mention included Walter Rock of Elyria's unbeaten Buckeye Conference champions, Bob Zalatel of Lorain, runner-up in Buckeye Conference play, Tom Wortman and Larry Urban of Newark and Bill Lee of Findlay.

Coach Blasts Pact on Leek

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—The signing of Gene Leek, the bonus player from the University of Arizona, by the Cleveland Indians has brought a blast from Arizona baseball Coach Frank Sancet.

Sancet, who described Leek as the best infielder he ever coached, said Tuesday he would do everything he could "to keep the Indians from getting any more of our players."

"They never advised us of their intentions," he said. "I went ahead and assembled this team with the belief everyone would be with us all season. Now this happens."

Cleveland General Manager Frank Lane, who approved the payment of a $35,000 bonus to the 21-year-old Leek, said the deal actually would help Arizona in the long run.

"It's good publicity for both the coach and the school," he said. "They deserve credit for turning out such a fine player."

Woody Held strengthened his claim to the Tribe's shortstop job by driving in four runs in the Indians' 10-5 victory over the Cubs at Mesa Tuesday. He led a 13-hit attack against three pitchers with a home run, a triple and a single.

Cleveland rookies Jim Perry, Bob Allen and Carl Thomas held the Cubs to eight hits, but three of them were home runs — by Ernie Banks, Lee Walls and Bobby Thomson.

Chamberlain Named Top Prexy Star

3 Senior Aces Win Trophies; Miami Coach Speaks

By JOHN SHORT

Mike Chamberlain, 6-3 senior forward for the Harding High School basketball squad, was awarded the Most Valuable Player trophy for the past season Tuesday night at the fourth annual Booster Club banquet.

The award was announced by Coach Don Knodel. The selection was made by a secret vote of the members of the team and Knodel called it a unanimous selection. "He certainly is most deserving of this award," the Prexy coach said in making the presentation.

CHAMBERLAIN also won the trophy for the top foul shooting performance on the Harding squad with a 63 per cent average. Bob Middleton, Harding's other co-captain, was awarded a trophy as the most efficient player on the team. His award was based on his season-long grades under Knodel's game - by - game efficiency system.

Dick Shrider, head basketball coach at Miami University, was speaker at the Booster Club fete. He praised basketball as "the greatest game of them all."

"You could lump all the other sports together and they still would not be as big as basketball," he insisted. He cited the many benefits he has enjoyed from basketball as a high school and collegiate star, a professional performer and now as a coach. "But the greatest asset of all," he said, "has been the many fine and lasting friendships I have made."

TO ACHIEVE success on the basketball floor, he told the Harding cage squad, "You have got to give it everything you have every second you're on the floor. Be the best. Work hard at whatever you do. If you don't, it's a waste of time."

He urged the senior members of the team to continue their education. "It's very important that you go to college," he said. "It's not important where you go but that you go." He urged the students to erase any doubt they might harbor at their chances of attending college. "If you are willing to work to get it, it's there," he added.

"Now is the time to get ready for next year," Shrider told the returning cagers. "If you are engaged in a spring sport go ahead and forget basketball. If not, you should be shooting that ball every day." Basketball players are made in the summer, he said. Only the polish is added in winter months. He pointed to Middletown's year-round basketball program as proof of his statement. "They want to be great and they are willing to pay the price," he said.

Shrider also praised the work of Knodel, another Miami U. graduate. The Harding coach was an All-Mid American Conference performer three years at Miami and Shrider said, "he has had to scrap for everything he's gotten."

"You had a fine season here and you were tremendous in the tournament," he added. "Give this guy (Knodel) a couple of years and he will put your town on the basketball map. You're going to win with him."

Knodel thanked the "many individuals and groups" who helped in making "my first year here so enjoyable." He especially thanked the Harding cheerleaders and newly-formed girls' pep club for their help.

Cheerleaders were given awards by Miss Marian Hendricks, faculty adviser. She praised the work and long hours put in by the cheering squad and presented awards to six girls. Winning honors were Anne Bechtle and Aija Porietis, sophomores; Sally Sharp and Etta Mae Armstrong, juniors, and Martie Bowden and Judy Vande Water, seniors.

Robert S. Brown, superintendent of schools, also thanked the girls for their contribution. He praised the leadership of Knodel and his assistants and pledged his full support in continuing the climb to athletic prominence now under way at Harding. "Rest assured, your board of education will do all in its power to continue the program," he said.

"WE ARE NOT pleased with the basic foundation of our basketball program," he said and indicated a more closely-knit program may be forthcoming between the high school and junior high levels.

George Howser, president of the Harding Booster Club, served as master of ceremonies at the banquet. Rev. Robert Byler, pastor of Epworth Methodist Church, gave the invocation.

Yankees Renew Efforts To Land Relief Pitcher

By The Associated Press

Flushed with success but apprehensive about the quality of their pitching staff, the World Champion New York Yankees today prepared to sit down at the bargaining table.

Object: A trade with Washington.

Subject: Relief specialist Dick Hyde.

Price May Be High

Price: Unknown, but expected to include at least a trio of Yankee rookies or bench-warmers.

Hyde, who pitches underhand, compiled a 10-3 won-lost record and a brilliant 1.75 earned run average while saving a host of games for the last-place Senators last year.

Washington owner Calvin Griffith, apparently willing to part with his bullpen ace in order to bolster other areas, has been holding out for a better offer from Yankee General Manager George Weiss.

The Senators defeated Pittsburgh 4-1 Tuesday in one of the three exhibition games played as rain idled most of the clubs for the second day. In other games, Boston beat San Francisco 6-1 and Cleveland thumped Chicago's Cubs 10-5.

Hyde allowed the Pirates' only run but pitched strongly in relief of Chuck Stobbs, who blanked Pittsburgh for the first five innings. Roy Sievers gave Washington all the runs it needed with a two-run homer in the first.

Red Sox Boost Lead

Frank Sullivan, who pitched six innings, and reliefer Herb Moford limited the hard-hitting Giants to four hits. Ted Lepcio homered for the Red Sox, who boosted their exhibition record to 8-1, best in both leagues.

Cleveland's 13-hit attack including Woody Held's homer, was too much for the Cubs, who got home runs from Ernie Banks, Lee Walls and Bobby Thomson. Five runs in the last two innings won it for the Indians.

Joe Van Durham, rookie outfielder with the St. Louis Cardinals, is nicknamed "Pop" because of his fondness for soda pop as a youngster.

Champ Slight Favorite

Kid Bassey Given Edge Over Moore

The site is the Olympic Auditorium, the time 7 p.m., Pacific Standard, and fight fans across the nation, barring the Southern California region, can see it over the ABC-TV network.

Second Title Defense

It is Bassey's second defense of the crown and it certainly should be tougher and more exciting than the first. That was last April when the little tiger from Nigeria belted out Ricardo (Pajarito) Moreno in Los Angeles' Wrigley Field in three rounds.

Bassey and his English manager, George Biddles, concede that Moore, the top-ranked contender, poses a threat. Biddles says the hard hitting young man from Springfield, Ohio, is the best Bassey has met in America.

Foes Unknown in U. S.

That would include ex-champion Willie Pep, whom he stopped in nine brawling rounds in Boston last September; Carmelo Costa, Ernesto Parra and Miguel Berrios, as well as Moreno.

Moore cinched the title fight by also stopping Moreno — he did it in one round — but his calibre of opponents isn't too impressive.

By the same token, the class of Bassey's vanquished rivals isn't known on this side of the ocean, either.

In any event, Los Angeles fans have seen both in action, and off these performances, tonight's affair should be spectacular.

Scoring will be by a referee and two judges, using the 10-point per round system — 10 to the winner nine or less to the loser.

Neither has ever been counted out. Moore has been floored only once; Bassey several times. Bassey has lost twice on cut eyes.

Top Positions Scrambled in Bowling Event

With action in the annual Marion Men's City Bowling Tournament continuing on the alleys of the Marion Recreation Center, Marion Auto Finance a member of the Mercantile League, has climbed into the lead with a score of 3049 pins.

Bibler's Vaults, also of the Mercantile loop, is in second place with a 3046-pin showing, while Marion Paint is third on the basis of a 3018 total. The Painters roll regularly with the Craftsman.

Fourth place is currently shared by the Home League's CIO-8, and Erie-2, which paced the field with a 2964 when first results were announced. Pfeiffer's Beer trails Erie and CIO with a 2958.

In action Monday and Tuesday, McMillen, the Amateurs, Central Soya and Eagles-2 all fell by the wayside.

Teams will roll at 6:45 tonight. Two sessions, at 6:45 and 9 p.m. are slated for Thursday, with one 6:45 action on Friday.

Doubles and singles activity of the tourney get underway Saturday, with the entire event to be concluded Sunday.

Red Top Beer is the defending team champion with a 3078-pin total. Warren Lutz and Wilbur Burgin hold the doubles title with a 1378, while Don Scott wears the singles crown by virtue of a 742. Gene Mull and Les Gorrell are all-events A and B kings respectively, with scores of 1891 and 1601 to their credits.

Veteran Golf Pro To Duel In Mississippi

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — At 51, most golfers are resigned to the slippers and pipe routine with maybe a visit to the course during weekends. But not so with Dick Metz, the tenacious Texan from Fort Worth.

Metz returns to the firing line Thursday in the $5,000 Gulf Coast invitational tournament which the nation's home professionals like to call their national open. The 72-hole event restricts its entries to home pros and bars players who have competed in more than three tournaments on the PGA tour.

Players from 32 states are entered in the tournament which gives the teaching profs a chance to compare styles. The event also offers them one of the few chances to get away from aspiring Hogans and Sneads at their home courses.

Joe Taylor of South Charleston, W. Va., returns to defend the title he won in a chase with Georgia's Dick Cline and Dale Morey of Indianapolis, Ind., will try for another title as the event's amateur-king.

Former National Amateur Champion Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., and one-time Western Amateur Champ Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., are among the other top entries.

Harvard and Yale have met 119 times in hockey since 1900.

Reds' Rookie Draws Praise Of Clyde King

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Clyde King, the scholarly one-time boy wonder of baseball, joined the Cincinnati Reds' faculty this season for just one job—make the pitching better.

His hurling staff is still a maze of question marks. The Reds started spring training here with 25 throwers in camp, some new, some old.

"We've got the potential for a fine pitching staff," he said, "one that can surprise a lot of the experts.

"When the season starts, I'll be in the bullpen all the time and it's my job to keep Mayo (Manager Mayo Smith) posted on who's who."

Brightest prospect as a starter or finisher is 22-year-old Jim O'Toole, 20-game winner for Nashville last season. He was King groping for superlatives to describe him.

"He's one of the finest young pitchers I've ever seen," said King.

The Reds stay here today for an exhibition game with Pittsburgh's Pirates. Don Newcombe is slated to open on the mound.

Catholic Athletes Are Feted at Banquet

Robbins and Ross Predict Better Year Ahead

By ALLAN BOVEY

A capacity crowd was on hand in the Marion Catholic High School gymnasium Tuesday night to take in the annual St. Patrick's Day dinner-dance program, staged as a tribute to members of the Irish football, basketball, track and cheerleading squads.

Tostmaster for the fete was the Rev. Colby Grimes, who introduced the Very Rev. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary Church, who talked at length on the patron saint, St. Patrick.

HIGHLIGHT OF the program was awarding of letters by Coaches Ray Robbins and Max Ross.

Robbins, head grid and cage mentor, suggested that while the records of the football and basketball teams the season just past "were not brilliant," they "were not too bad in light of the rebuilding program we had to undertake."

He pointed out that his gridders won 4, lost 3 and tied 2 games. "We showed some real improvement as the season went along, and I sincerely feel that our record, all considered, was satisfactory."

As for basketball, Robbins observed that "we knew full well a season like we just finished was coming." The Irish pilot pointed out that for "about two years our cagers had nowhere to practice except out in the county in scrimmage sessions against other quintets. That meant that only juniors and seniors worked out. The younger boys, many of whom made up our squad this season, were left by the wayside."

Commenting on the past season's 2-17 record, Robbins declared it was to the credit of the boys that the same schedule was maintained "this year when we were down as in the last 10 years or so when we were up." He added, "We played way out of our class insofar as our capabilities were concerned, but we never lost the spirit that makes for a good athletic program."

"We'll win a few more than we'll lose next year," he concluded. "After that, watch us."

THE IRISH coach paid tribute to a host of individuals whose combined services, he declared, "make our sports program possible." Included in this group were Ed Burke and Dan Smith, who handle the sixth, seventh and eighth grade basketballers; Max Ross and Clayton Hartley, assistants on Robbins' staff; Floyd Cornely, chief of the Irish exchequer; and Frank Stringer, past president of the Marion Catholic Booster Club.

Ross, overseer of the Catholic track and field squad, suggested, in looking back over the season past, that "sometimes more is gained from losing than winning." He suggested that the array of talent "coming up the line to perform next season says something for the job that was done this past year, even though records for game performances have not been the best."

Ross, who assists with both basketball and football, dwelt mostly on the forthcoming track season, observing that "there is considerable promise" for his crew of thinclads. He introduced his returning lettermen, who, he said, "will carry the bulk of our hopes into a full schedule of meets." They are Ted Anderson, Dennis Blue, Duane Isom, Dennis Dickerson, Brian Kavanaugh, Ray Hirneise and Bob Slauson. Joe Krigbaum is also back, but the attack of rheumatic fever that kept him out of football will curtail his activities to assisting Ross with the training of the other cindermen.

"We feel our athletic program is on the upgrade," Robbins asserted.

Mike Stringer, Bob Dendinger, Tim Peacock, Jim Rish, John Britz and Mike Schlairet won reserve numerals. Letters for the freshman team went to John Head, John Gunder, Don Sherer, Tom Cochran, Fran Voll, Bill New, Tom West, George Emery and Ken Barzacchini. Al Peacock, Walter Ring and Steve Blackledge won managerial awards. Numerals were won by the following Irish frosh: Ted Frericks, Mike Hamper, Mike Truka, Jack Fabian, Sam Rizzo, Jim Byrnes, Dan Milton and Bill Baker.

The Rev. Raymond Carter invoked the blessing prior to the banquet, with the Rev. Robert Noon giving the benediction.

Welterweight Title Fight Is Postponed
ST. LOUIS (AP)—A three-week postponement of the welterweight championship rematch between Champion Don Jordan and Virgil Akins was granted Tuesday because Jordan's training was interrupted by his wife's illness.
The fight was rescheduled for April 24 at Kiel Auditorium here. It had been set for March 6 but a tornado damaged the St. Louis Arena and it was postponed to April 3 at Kiel.
Jordan's wife became ill after the premature birth of a baby nine days ago. The baby weighed only two pounds. Jordan's manager, Don Nesseth, said both wife and baby are all right now, although the baby is in an incubator.

Bridges Holds Control

Longshoremen's Chief Hawaii Labor Kingpin

By VICTOR RIESEL

There is no pretender to the throne of Queen Liliuckalani, unless it's Harry Bridges. Hawaii has always been the pineapple of his eye. He has poured more money, time and talent into tightening a labor vise on the island outpost than Dole has juice—so it came as startling news that some congressmen meeting behind the House Rules Committee closed doors put themselves on the secret record with statements that Hawaiian labor was free of pro-Communist influence.

VICTOR RIESEL

In that Rules Committee meeting, they were battling over Hawaiian statehood. Congressmen were trying to beat down charges by some of their colleagues that the 50th star in the flag may glow a little red.

Friends of Hawaii pointed to the report of a special three-man House Interior Committee which went out to Honolulu last winter—a delightful voyage. They returned with news that they had been told that pro-Communist influence was just as solid as a grass skirt.

THOSE THREE MEN were asked by Congressman Walter Rogers (Texas) who had given them the glad tidings about the islands, through which pass more than 1,000 of our most strategic ships each year. The retort, born of great philosophical introspection, was:

"We can only tell you this — it wasn't Santa Claus."

This was of great cultural value to my friends at the National Geographic, for they may have thought the old boy winters there — as who wouldn't. What the three travelers had put into the record —and what apparently was the basis of the Rules Committee decision that there was little pro-Communist influence in Hawaiian labor—was this:

"We were told that the FBI investigation, plus the Federal Court action, crippled the Communist apparatus in Hawaii and with the continued white light of publicity and the alert citizenry, it would remain crippled. We were also told that no proof exists of Soviet espionage contacts on the part of Communists in Hawaii."

No one rasies the question of proof of Soviet espionage contacts. Nor can anyone quote the FBI on this particular matter. It has issued no statements. That is not the bureau's practice.

THE POINT IS that one member of the House Rules Committee, Richard Bolling, of Kansas City, Mo., told the group that he had it on good authority that there was no substantial pro-Communist influence in the unions.

Rep. Bolling is a former teacher. He was asked on what he based his information. He told the off-the-record Rules Committee session that he had a letter from a reliable source.

The ex-school teacher should find it fascinating, therefore, to sit in on a session of the House Un-American Activities Committee on March 24. Mr. Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, has been subpoenaed to appear before it to answer questions on his recent conferences with Communist leaders in Rome, Prague, Moscow and East Berlin.

For example, Bridges will be asked to explain why he said the Soviet labor organizations are more democratic than some U.S. unions — when virtually all students of Russian trade unions see them as state-controlled production speed-up mechanisms without the right to strike.

It is anyone's privilege to be uninformed. But it doesn't appear to be the right of those making our laws to abuse that privilege. The question of statehood is one thing. But a realistic analysis of union power is another.

IT WAS BRIDGES' union newspaper which printed a big two-column spread friendly to those U.S. soldiers who turncoated against us in Chinese prison camps.

It was Bridges' union which was tried by its peers in CIO nine years ago and found to be following the Communist-line. It is this union chief who has blistered U.S. positions — and talked warmly of Soviet China.

It is this man Bridges who met regularly with the pro-Communist bloc inside the old CIO.

It is this man and many of his followers who are sufficiently powerful to paralyze the Hawaiian economy and who have considerable influence inside the island legislature. That is fact. The rest is rhetoric and a prelude to history.

St. Louis Suffers 75-72 Decision in NIT Chase

NEW YORK (AP)—"It's unbelievable. It's unbelievable."

That's what Coach Joe Mullaney of Providence College kept shouting Tuesday night after his "Cinderella" team beat second-seeded St. Louis 75-72 in double overtime to reach the semifinals of the National Invitational Tournament.

New York University also advanced to Thursday's semifinals with an easy 63-48 victory over Oklahoma City. This second game of the basketball doubleheader at Madison Square Garden was strictly an anticlimax to the crowd of 14,269.

Providence, which upset Manhattan 68-66 last Saturday in the last six seconds of play, now is pitted against St. John's of New York while NYU goes against top-seeded Bradley.

It was 66-65 in the first overtime when Providence got a break. They lost the ball on a bad pass out of bounds with 47 seconds left. But Big Bob Ferry, who led St. Louis with 29 points, missed a shot with only three seconds to go.

Ferry did put St. Louis ahead 68-67 on a three-point play in the second overtime, but soph Johnny Egan then canned two free throws to put the Friars in front for good at 69-68. With 16 seconds remaining Ferry got his 12th basket to make it 73-72. Egan however, again dunked two free throws with 10 seconds left to sew it up. Len Wilkens scored 30 points and Egan 29 to pace the Friars.

Oklahoma City made only one threat in the second game. NYU took an 11-2 lead, but the Chiefs pulled up to 28-26 just before the end of the half. The Violets quickly opened an 11-point lead in the second half and were never headed.

MOUND GREAT DIES. Howard Ehmke, 65, former Major League strikeout king, died Tuesday at a Philadelphia hospital. Cause of death was not announced by his physicians. Ehmke was a standout pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics during the 1920's and set a World Series record in 1929 by striking out 13 batters in one game. The record stood until 1953 when Carl Erskine of Brooklyn fanned 14.

Bowling

Rolling on the alleys of the Palace Tuesday night were members of the Sportsman's and MPS leagues. Plaza Ladies took to the Plaza Lanes' boards.

Steve Norris and Cliff Drake paced the field in Sportsman kegling, turning in totals of 235 and 591. Norris wound up with a 584, while Drake posted a high single game of 212 pins. Others finishing with highs included Larry Montgomery, 213—553; Ev Trubee, 223—574; Paul Smith, 204—559; Clem Ahouse, 223—560; Harry Peifer, 234—590; Dick Detwiler, 202—563; Bud Creasap, 212—562; Pete Browning, 223; Gene Norris, 235—584; and Don Schoonmaker, 553. Red Top Beer and Pepsi Cola had team highs of 932 and 2715.

Bud Lawhead had the best series of 588 in MPS action. He also rolled a 212 single game. Junior Wilcox had the high single game—a 234 effort. Also credited with top totals: Harold Jenkins, 210—202; Wilcox, 560; Charles Arnold, 205; Wally Wolbert, 555; William Weis, 200—539; Evan Anderson, 203; Harold Robertson, 202—522; William Cowgill, 216; John Patterson, 214—572: Jim Reeder, 208; Harold Jenkins, 579; and Wayne Osborne, 528. Production took both team highs on scores of 966 and 2699.

Ted Loyer rolled a 197 single and Judy Phelps turned in a 533 series to share honors in the Plaza Ladies League. Rovana Osborne recorded a 192-524. Also rolling high scores were Miss Loyer, 495; Mickey Carpenter, 169—465; Betty Rizzo, 169—480; Mrs. Phelps, 145-194-194; Janice Knerr, 168; and Marcel Price, 167. Splits were converted as follows: Sue Jewett, 2-5-7; Rovana Osborne, 3-10; Mickey Carpenter, 3-10; Nancy Wilson, 3-10; Pauline Ellisor, 3-10; Clara Rizor, 5-10; and Mary Montgomery, 4-7-9.

HOW TO CARE FOR CARPETING

All too soon after the new carpet is laid you may notice a beat down traffic path.

Don't let it floor you. The carpet will stay new looking for years if you remove spots and traffic paths as they appear with Blue Lustre Carpet and Upholstery Cleaner. Blue Lustre literally erases the beat down areas without the necessity of cleaning entire carpet. One half gallon of Blue Lustre concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

Galionite Named In $75,000 Lawsuit

BUCYRUS — A $75,000 action for money has been filed in Crawford County Common Pleas Court here by Paul E. Erfurt, of Galion, against Robert L. Marks of Galion, and the National Life and Accident Insurance Co. of Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. Erfurt alleges he was injured permanently in March, 1957, when his car was struck by Marks' car at a Galion street intersection. He charges that Marks failed to yield the right of way and that his car was knocked into two parked cars.

According to his petition, Mr. Erfurt suffered head, neck, back and internal injuries. He claims he is forced to wear a neck harness and that, because of his injuries, has had to employe additional help in his jewelry store.

The insurance company is named a party defendant, the petition states, because Marks was engaged in collecting money for the company when the accident occurred.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Iranian blackneck pheasants released in Virginia—600 in number—are doing well. The state plans to release another 1,000 but the real test will come in seeing that they nest. Chinese ringneck pheasants were unsuccessful in Virginia although they have done well in many parts of the United Staes. The Iranian blackneck is a slightly smaller bird.

By JOHN CROSBY

For Whom the Bell Tolls

Ernest Hemingway's "For Whom the Bell Tolls," coming as it did just after the Spanish Civil War and during the early days of World War II, struck my generation with shattering force.

JOHN CROSBY

It is a story of the monumental simplicities — a story of love and war and death — the trinity which has occupied Hemingway throughout his writing career — told with an architectural purity of line. When you finish it, you felt deeply satisfied, gratified, replete, as a work of art should leave you.

I must confess to some disappointment with "Playhouse 90's" frightfully ambitious dramatization, the first part of which was shown on CBS-TV last Thursday night.

THE STORY OPENED with marvelous promise. Jason Robards Jr., as Robert Jordon, the hero, is found with Herbert Bergof, doing a tiny jewel-like bit as Gen. Golz.

These two men plotting the destruction of a bridge sprang to life instantly as true Hemingway characters and the scene itself was fine Hemingway — concise, hard-bitten, masculine, tight as a fiddle string and yet with an undercurrent of rippling male humor.

Robards, one of the most promising young men to come along in many a moon, is truly a fine actor with his imposing authority, his clean-cut movements without messy corners, the little flashes of detail (patting a horse without looking at it revealing in a flash a love of horses coupled with a stern preoccupation with duty).

However, he dims occasionally in this piece and this, I think, is the fault of Hemingway or of his adaptor, A. E. Hochner. The character he plays is a little unfinished.

"FOR WHOM the Bell Tolls" is the story of the blowing up of a bridge in wartime. It is a failure as a military operation. Its hero is killed. It is a little tragedy in a big war.

Its greatness lies in putting all war into human terms — the fun of war (because there is fun in spite of the sentimentalists) and the sheer awfulness.

The first half of the story — at least as handled here — dwelt extensively and, I think, too long on the erosion of the character of Pablo, played by Nehemiah Persoff.

Pablo was a mighty man who had been ruined by the corruption of war and, while this is a large theme, it somehow put the story out of joint. It focussed attention too exclusively on Persoff when it should more properly have been leveled at some of the others, particularly the lovers.

PILAR, WIFE of Pablo, is one of Hemingway's great characters —a woman of sculpturesque power like one of Michelangelo's arch angels. Maureen Stapleton, a truly fine actress, played her with power and precision, but I don't think Pilar has been altogether captured by an actress yet and it's just possible she never will be.

Maria Schell was a lovely Maria — her gamin face lighting the screen with the glories of first love — but again I felt a lack of fulfillment in the character. Perhaps in the next installment.

Eli Wallach was altogether fine as a gypsy with a rare resonant sense of humor and here I think the essence of Hemingway came across most fully. When he promises to catch a tank with a glint of laughter in his eyes, he is all man, all gypsy, all Hemingway.

I THINK we are seeing here the birth of a new art which can lead anywhere, even to the end of movies as we know them.

"For Whom the Bell Tolls" is all on tape (except for the first love scene which for contractual reasons was live). It was shot very much like a movie and yet with live television cameras.

In 10 days in two TV studios, director John Frankenheimer and producer Fred Coe were attempting to produce the equivalent of a three - hour picture on which the movie people spent six months and five million dollars.

Frankly, I don't think they pulled it off, but it was an epochal try. And there were some beautiful scenes and some exquisite bits —Maria Schell telling Robards she would like to shoot his pistol, Miss Stapleton telling of the ruin of her man, Eli Wallach quipping about the need for a woman even in the midst of war.

I hope that with this marvelous new tape the directors do not use movie techniques too much. By that I mean the use of too many quick takes of faces, too many scenes at the sacrifice of cumulative power, of reality, of simple humanity.

I found myself admiring the techniques, the camera angles, and so forth, when I should have been too lost in the story to notice those things.

Nevertheless, I shall be watching this Thursday night to see how it all comes out, and especially to watch the expert acting of Mr. Robards, Miss Schell, Miss Stapleton and Mr. Wallach.

Charge Dismissed

A charge of malicious cutting against Harry W. Medley, 38, of Caledonia was dismissed at a preliminry hearing in Marion Municipal Court Tuesday.

The case was dismissed by Acting Judge Paul Simpson for lack of evidence to prosecute.

Upper Council Agrees to New Reservoir Pact

UPPER SANDUSKY — Game Protector T. B. Warner and a representative of the Ohio Division of Wildlife district office at Findlay attended the regular meeting of the Upper Sandusky Village Council Monday night to explain at 25-year agreement with the state of Ohio for stocking of fish and improving the area of the new Upper Sandusky reservoir.

Under the long-term agreement the state would construct a parking lot for the use of the public. Bids for the lot already have been received at the Findlay office. After hearing the proposal, council agreed to the new contract, which will succeed the five-year agreement now in effect and under which the reservoir was stocked last year with largemouth bass, white bass and channel catfish. Walleyes will be stocked this year when available.

Council also announced that the cost of repair of local streets and alleys this year will amount to $12,769.21. A full list of streets and alleys to be repaired will be listed in legal advertising.

Approval was given to installation of a new street light and removal of a number of trees.

Suspended Fines Given 2 Men on Dog Charges

Two Marion County men were fined $25 and costs each in Marion Municipal Court Tuesday on separate charges of permitting a dog to run at large.

They were: Rodney A. Baldinger, 24, of near Caledonia and Carl L. Bailey, 52, of near Caledonia.

The charges were filed against them by Victor Culp, county dog warden, on Jan. 25. Acting Judge Paul Simpson suspended the fines, but ordered the defendants to pay the court costs.

Four Bucyrus Alleys Vacated By Councilmen

Action Sought by 2 Firms; City To Pay For Damage to Boats

BUCYRUS — An ordinance authorizing the vacation of four alleys in the vicinity of the Ohio Locomotive Crane and Crawford Steel Foundry companies was approved by city council here Tuesday night.

The petition for vacation of the alleys was submitted to council and approved by its platting committee. The petition was signed by R. B. Sweney, vice president and treasurer of Crawford Steel, and Paul E. Downend, assistant secretary of Ohio Crane.

The petition stated that the alleys have never been open to the public and their vacation would not be detrimental to the public.

Council also approved a resolution authorizing the payment of $235 to the Lakeway Sports Center of near Bucyrus for damage inflicted to their boats while they were used to evacuating residents during the January floods.

Mayor Joe Sullivan informed council that he had held a conference with Gov. Michael V. DiSalle about obtaining state aid for street maintenance in Bucyrus. He read a copy of a letter, sent by Gov. DiSalle, to the state highway director, suggesting that any lag in the program should be corrected. The mayor said he had received some "promises" of state assistance and that he plans to meet with the state highway director in the near future.

Councilman Bruce Sharrock, chairman of the service committee, reported that all types of contractors will be contacted to obtain their opinions concerning a suggested building code. He said that if the contractors favor a code, a public meeting will be called to discuss the issue.

Mr. Lauer took the former Cloa Lehner as his bride on March 24, 1909, in a ceremony at the parsonage of the Prospect Baptist Church.

The 71-year-old Mrs. Lauer was born Sept. 4, 1887, to Mr. and Mrs. William Lehner. Mr. Lauer, who is a purchasing agent, was born Aug. 23 of the same year and is the son of the late Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lauer.

The celebrants are parents of two sons and a daughter, Mrs. Lucile Carey of near Green Camp, Dr. Bernard Lauer of Delaware and Dr. Harold Lauer of Lima. They have ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Fire Levels Barn In Prospect Area

Fire Monday night leveled a Prospect area barn and caused loss estimated at $6,000.

The barn was on the farm of Mrs. Howard Gix. Mrs. Gix said the fire apparently started about 4:30 p.m. Monday and raged out of control before the Conrad Fire Department from Prospect could be summoned.

She said her son, Richard, had been to the barn about 4 o'clock and noticed no signs of burning, but shortly after 4:30 they spotted the fire from the house.

Lost with the building were two sows with litters and three gilts belonging to her son, Richard, and eight sheep belonging to another son, Don. Also in the building were a tractor and miscellaneous pieces of farm equipment, all of which were destroyed.

Mrs. Gix said it was not known how the blaze began.

To Your Good Health

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Ankylosis Is a Common Complaint

Today's letter contains a nine-letter word, and don't be surprised if you haven't heard it before. Not that it's a new word, but it isn't in common use except medically.

Dr. Molner

What I'm saying is this: Don't quit reading when you come to that nine-letter word. Do not say, "Well, I haven't got THAT, so I might as well stop reading."

You'll soon see why I think it is of potential interest to everybody, so stick around. Here's letter, short and sweet. Or anyway short.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will you explain what ankylosis is? What causes it? Is there any cure for it?—E.H.

Ankylosis (pronounced "anke" as in damyankee, and "losis") has nothing in particular to do with either TB or Yankees.

IT MEANS a stiffening of a joint. And when there is stiffening of a joint, there is a reason for it. Maybe it is some change in the fibrous tissues, or maybe in the bone. But there's some reason.

It may be arthritis, which is infamous for making a joint stiffen up—if you let it.

Maybe the bone has been fractured. Obviously, in the knitting the added thickness of the bone can interfere, unless something is done about it.

Or some infection may get into the joint. You've seen an infected finger swell. So can a joint.

Or leaving a joint in fixed position for a long time (as the result of a stroke, for example) can cause ankylosis. In such a case some therapy is called for—massage, and physically moving a joint when the owner of it is paralyzed and can't do it for himself.

FOR A SIMPLER and less worrisome example, there's the ordinary stiffness of unaccustomed exertion, as any 12-year-old boy can tell you, and any athlete. The exercise leaves you stiffened up the next day, but if you don't give in to it and force yourself to work off the stiffness, presently the lame joints are better than ever.

Of course there's a difference between a joint stiffened by exercise and one stiffened by disease or accident. But they have this in common: A joint should NOT be allowed to stiffen. It should be kept mobile if at all possible—it should be moved.

With arthritis, the pain and stiffness in the morning make it a temptation to sit still. Don't do it! Keep those joints moving! I don't mean tough, strenuous or prolonged activity, but don't let the stiffness become chronic.

In some cases of ankylosis, adhesions may have formed. It may be necessary to use anethesia and break off the adhesions by physical manipulation sometimes. The treatment depends on the cause. But the best course of all is to move a joint when a sign of stiffness appears. Prevention is always better than cure.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My 2-year-old son is allergic. Penicillin causes hives, and when he is bitten by an insect there is much swelling. Should I have something on hand to give him right away in case he is stung?—Mrs. C.N."

I would say it would be reasonable to have an antihistamine tablet on hand for that purpose. If there is a very severe reaction to a sting, then do not delay calling your doctor.

There is a tendency for youngsters to outgrow this type of sensitivity, but you can't predict that with certainty.

R.O.G.: Perfectly pure water, frozen, becomes perfectly pure ice. But freezing does NOT destroy germs that may be lurking there, so do NOT assume that something frozen is pure.

—:—

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Worst Ice Condition in Years Could Delay Lakes Shipping

CLEVELAND (AP) — Great Lakes shippers are anxious to get the 1959 navigation season started. They may be delayed by the worst ice conditions in years.

The Coast Guard won't predict an opening date for navigation, but if ice conditions aren't too severe it should be early in April.

Prompting the rush is the current production rate of the nation's steel mills; demand is increasing for iron ore, the lakes' most important cargo.

The rush to get ships into commission this year is good news for the lakes' 12,000 sailors. Many spent last year ashore and unemployed during the recession.

As for the ice, the toughest battle is always on the 86-mile-long St. Mary's River and Whitefish Bay, doorway to Lake Superior and the major iron ore loading ports.

Whitefish Bay and Lake Superior are almost frozen over, the Coast Guard reports. Only 40 per cent is usually ice-covered at this time of year.

The Lake Carriers' Assn. took the first step toward opening the 1959 season when its ice committee met March 11. The committee, which meets annually, determines two important dates in consultation with the Coast Guard, the U.S. Weather Bureau and other observers:

1—When to attempt navigation on the lower lakes—Ontario, Erie, Huron and Michigan — and the Straits of the Mackinac. A tentative date of April 1 has been set by the Coast Guard to try to clear the straits.

2—When to attempt the big breakthrough into Lake Superior. That question will have to be answered later.

3 Depot Employes Presented Awards

Three Marion Engineer Depot employes were given sustained superior performance awards when the depot supervisors held their monthly meeting Tuesday noon.

Paul R. Sycks of near Marion received the top award of $200. He is an engineer equipment mechanic foreman.

Vinal W. Foos of 328 Madison Ave. and Robert D. Garrison of 287 Kenmore St. each received awards of $150. Mr. Foos is a diesel engine mechanic leader and Mr. Garrison is a freight traffic clerk.

All three had sustained superior performance from Jan. 1, 1958 to Jan. 1, 1959.

Guest speaker for the program was Dr. Daniel Murphy of Marion. He talked on the health and medical program at the depot.

Clermont County's Treasurer Short $48,747, Plans To Quit

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—The Clermont County treasurer says he plans to resign today in the wake of disclosures his accounts are $48,747 short.

John P. Friend, who started in the treasurer's office in 1936 and held the top job for the past 10 years, said Tuesday he knew for 20 years there was a shortage in the office accounts.

"But I kept it to myself," he said, "because I hoped to find out how it happened."

However, state examiners said they detected the shortage after study of tax receipts for collections since August, 1958.

The auditors said taxpayers whose accounts were shown as unpaid produced proof of payment.

County Prosecutor Ralph A. Hill said an investigation is under way.

Friend also said he expects a shortage of about $2,000 to be found in personal and classified tax accounts.

He is active in county Democratic circles, in Boy Scout work and the Methodist Church. He is married and has two sons.

Friend said: "If I had known how the shortage occurred, I would have done something about it."

He said he told no one of the shortages. "If it came out in the open," he said, "I might lose my office and I had three faces to feed."

The county treasurer's pay is $5,400 yearly.

Patricia Finch, one of the leading players in the Broadway hit, "Tall Story," was graduated as a teacher from Michigan State University.

Salamanca, N.Y., Fire Is Fatal to 4 Children

SALAMANCA, N.Y. (AP)—Four children perished Tuesday night when flames ripped through their rural home as they slept.

Their mother, hands and face badly charred, saved three other children and drove them in a pickup truck to a neighbor's house for help. The survivors were rushed to a hospital in nearby Olean.

The dead were identified as Barbara Hecker, 14, her brother William, 10, and two sisters, Holly 13, and Joan 3.

Mrs. William Hecker and a daughter, Christine, 9, were reported in critical condition. The other two, Jacqueline, 12, and Loretta, 6 months, were in fair condition.

Firemen arrived to find the two-story wooden farmhouse burned to the ground.

Mrs. Hecker's husband was away at his factory job in Buffalo.

Bequest of $500 Made to Marion Salvation Army

A bequest of $500 to the Marion Salvation Army Corps was announced at a meeting of the advisory board Tuesday night in the Citadel.

The gift is from the late Mrs. Maud Rensch and was announced by Rex. H. Robinson, a member of the endowment committee, in a letter from John W. Watters, attorney administering the estate.

Harry L. Dowler, board chairman, presided for the meeting and guests were officers and members of the board of the Bucyrus Corps. Speaking the invocation was the Rev. Irvin W. Emmons, pastor of First Presbyterian Church and a member of the board.

A request from sponsors of the school for mentally retarded children for space to conduct classes in the Citadel was unanimously approved by the board. According to present plans, the school will be conducted at the Citadel for the remainder of this school term with further plans to be worked out by the school and Maj. James Hall of the Salvation Army and members of the board's property committee. The school is now being held at the Marion County Children's Home.

Other business included reports by Leslie Adams of the finance committee, Cutler McGrew of the property committee and Norval Foreman of the welfare committee.

Guests were Maj. and Mrs. Nolan Shipman, officers-in-charge of the Bucyrus Corps, Judge Constance Keller of the Crawford County Juvenile and Probate Courts, Loren W. Eichelberger and Clifford Pentz, members of the Bucyrus advisory board. They were introduced by Maj. Hall and each gave a brief talk.

Closing prayer was by Maj. Shipman. The business meeting was preceded by dinner with decorations and favors in keeping with St. Patrick's Day.

NLRB Examiner, Parties in Hearing Visit Local Plant

A 2½ hour visit to the Marion Division of the Whirlpool Corp. was a highlight of a National Labor Relations Board hearing Tuesday.

At the request of the trial examiner, A. Bruce Hunt, all parties participating in the hearing made the trip.

The entire manufacturing area was observed, particularly those areas in which Carl Adkins worked prior to his discharge. The United Auto Workers claims that Mr. Adkins' discharge was "discriminatory".

Two witnesses testified during the day. Stanley Williams, personnel manager, was on the stand all morning and part of the afternoon. Direct examination of T. L. Hufert, director of industrial relations, was concluded prior to the visit to the plant.

Ohio Has Abundant Supplies Of Water, Rotary Club Told

Ohio has a tremendous water potential and the supply should be more than adequate to meet increasing needs for many years to come.

This assurance was given by Tony Rudnick, watershed economist of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, in a talk to the Marion Rotary Club Tuesday noon at Hotel Harding.

Ohio is using 12,000,000,000 gallons of water daily, he revealed. This figure will rise to an estimated 15,000,000,000 gallons by 1975 and 24,000,000,000 by the year 2000, he said.

All this water is not lost, he pointed out. Much water use is non-consumptive and the water is returned to the source to be used again, Mr. Rudnick said.

Despite the bright long-range picture, there are some areas in the state with subnormal water supplies, he said.

In addition to surface water Ohio is blessed with large underground rivers, he said. The Hamilton - Cincinnati area has a large source of this type, he revealed.

Conservation of water through major control sites such as the Delaware Dam has helped immensely, he said.

Mr. Rudnick was introduced by Rex Kilbourn, program chairman for March.

Cedric E. Fry, a visiting Rotarian from Skegness, England, presented Jack Maxwell, president of the Marion Rotary Club, with a pennant from his own club an extended greetings to the local Rotarians.

Other guests were introduced by Dr. Charles W. Wilson.

Other visiting Rotarians were Howard F. Schnepp and Walter J. Fry, both of Upper Sandusky; Carl W. Albrecht of Greenville, William Marsteller of Cleveland and William Brown of Waterville. Other guests were Jacob C. Schneckenburger of Akron and Kenneth Roberts and Jax Carroll of Marion.

2 Flee Ashland Jail

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Two Mansfield juveniles used spoons and a piece of pipe from a cell cot to carve a 30-inch hole in the wall in escaping from the Ashland County jail Tuesday. They slipped down to freedom on an improvised rope of sheets and blankets. One was turned in a few hours later by his parents. The other was still free today. It was the second escape from the jail in nine days.

Most of Mexico City was once a large lake. Sediment and volcanic ash filled most of it as a foundation for the present day city.

Local Engineers Will Attend State Meeting in Toledo

A number of Marion residents and a Delaware man have indicated they will attend the annual convention of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers (OSPE) Thursday through Saturday in Toledo.

Scheduled to attend from Marion are:

Kuhner, chairman of the architect engineers state committee; C. Robert Martin, chairman of the public affairs committee; Charles Wright and L. C. Miller.

John Eishen of Delaware also is scheduled to attend. Mr. Wright will serve on a panel for discussion of "Professional Relations."

Ohio industrial leaders and state officials, including Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, will speak during the convention.

Hearings Slated On Bypasses for Elyria, Wooster

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Proposed traffic relief routes around Elyria and Wooster will be explained at public hearings next week.

The proposed route to Elyria would replace Ohio 57 between Clinton Avenue and a point south of the Black River's east fork. Slightly more than six miles long, it is expected to cost $3,400,000. Existing pavement would revert to Elyria and Lorain County.

The Elyria hearing is March 23. At Wooster, the proposed route would be a little over 12 miles long and cost about 13 million dollars. It would roughly parallel U. S. 30 from east of Apple Creek to Wayne County Road No. 36, and involves relocation of part of U.S. 30, U.S. 250 and Ohio 3 along the southeast edge of Wooster.

Present pavement would be turned over to Wooster and Wayne County. The hearing is March 25.

David H. Hammond Is in Hospital After Crash on Rt. 30-S

A Marion youth was hospitalized in one of five county accidents investigated Tuesday night by state patrolmen of the Marion post.

The rash of mishaps brought a renewed appeal from Cpl. D. M. Dewalt, post commander, for drivers to exercise caution on snow and ice-covered roads.

He pointed out that 45 accidents already have occurred this month in the Marion - Morrow County area.

Listed in "good condition" at Marion General Hospital this morning was David H. Hammond, 17, of 302 Senate St.

Patrolmen said he suffered back injuries, a bruised left leg and a cerebral concussion when his eastbound auto skidded out of control on Rt. 30-S and flipped over.

Hammond was brought to the hospital in a Boyd ambulance. The accident occurred at 5:20 p.m. two miles west of Marion.

According to the report, his auto flipped over on its top and then slid sideways several feet, finally turning over to land on its wheels. The vehicle came to rest against a fence owned by Branch Roberts of near Marion.

Officers said hte car was badly damaged. The accident still is under investigation.

Nancy Jo Dasher, 23, of near Marion was charged with driving left of center after her southbound auto slid out of control on Rt. 23 and struc a northbound car driven by Ronald E. Mullins, 40, of 342 Silver St.

Patrolmen said the mishap occurred two and one-half miles north of Marion at 7:50 p.m., considerably damaging both cars.

Automobiles Collide

In another Rt. 23 accident, the two autos involved were only slightly damaged. It occurred at 7:25 p.m. about two miles south of the city.

Investigating officers reported that a northbound car driven by Mrs. Barbara A. Seitter, 28, of 662 Irey Ave. skidded left of center to strike a southbound vehicle driven by Edgar Wyatt, 54, of Prospect.

A trailer - tractor combination jackknifed and struck an underpass on Rt. 30-S, tearing loose the top and left side of the trailer, at 8:55 p.m. Tuesday one mile west of the Morrow County line.

Patrolmen said the eastbound rig was driven by Charles E. Davis, 39, of Cleveland. Both the trailer and the tractor were badly damaged. The underpass was only slightly damaged.

A Marion woman's car skidded out of control on Rt. 23 one mile south of the city at 7:30 p.m., coming to rest in a ditch.

According to the report, the northbound vehicle driven by Mrs. Edna L. Grate, 51, of 549 Lee St. was not badly damaged.

Parked Car Hit

One minor traffic accident was investigated early today by city police.

A truck driven by Dallas Frouck, 20, of Akron struck an unidentified car at Mt. Vernon Ave. and S. Greenwood St. at 6:16 a.m.

Frouck told police he applied his brakes and skidded on the icy pavement into the parked car. The parked car bore an Indiana license tag, but the owner could not be located immediately.

Governors Will Meet With Ike Monday on Jobless Pay Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors of eight states and Hawaii have been invited to meet with President Eisenhower Monday to discuss jobless pay.

In announcing the invitations Tuesday, the White House said the purpose of the meeting is to explore "ways to strengthen the regular federal-state unemployment compensation program."

In addition to Hawaii's governor, the invitations went to the chief executives of Florida, Illinois, Mississippi, New Jersey, West Virginia, North Dakota, Utah and Colorado. All nine are members of the executive committee of the National Governors Conference.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, 18 Democratic senators described the jobless pay extension bill passed by the House Monday as "almost totally inadequate."

In a letter to Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee they called for committee hearings on ways to do more for the unemployed.

Byrd has set Friday for consideration of the House bill. There are indications his committee will send it to the floor promptly, probably without public hearings.

Five Cattle Missing

Mr. Stump, a cattle raiser and trucker, told the sheriff that at least five animals, weighing from 450 to 500 pounds, were missing from one of his tenant farms north of Tiro.

George D. Wilson.

IN MEMORY of our mother, Mrs. Mary Benedict, who departed this life March 18, 1955.

She whose life brought naught but joy
To us, in death has left
Sorrow time can never soften
For hearts so broken and bereft
It was His Will that she should die,
His Will that we should let her go;
And we must ever bow to it,
But oh dear God, we miss her so!

The Children.

IN MEMORY of our dear father, Harlie G. Irey, who passed away March 18, 1953.

No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have loved can tell
The grief we bear in silence
For our Dad we loved so well.

Indian Proves Artistry With Spheres of Ivory

NEW DELHI (AP) — Bhagat Bhim Sen set what he said was a record recently by carving a 4½-inch ivory ball with 26 other ivory balls inside.

Bhim Sen claimed this beat his own record of 25 balls inside a 4½ inch sphere set in 1955. Before that, he said, a Chinese craftsman had held the record with 24 balls inside a six-inch sphere.

Bhim Sen said the new job took 18 months to finish. The final product, valued at $1,470 was placed on display at the "India 1958" industrial exhibit.

YOU REALLY LOVE THIS CAR, DON'T YOU, PAUL?
IT EXCITES ME, CONNIE. IT—IT'S LIKE SOMETHING HUMAN... FINELY TOOLED, ALERT, SWIFT. A MAN AND A CAR LIKE THIS DEVELOP A RAPPORT...

WATCH THAT REAR PORCH, SAM. I'M GOING UP AND RING THE FRONT DOORBELL.
THIS IS AN OLD BUILDING THAT'S BEEN REMODELED. THE BACK DOOR OPENS DIRECTLY INTO THE KITCHEN.
NO RESPONSE UP HERE, SAM. WHAT DO YOU SEE BACK THERE?" ASKS TRACY.
I'VE GOT MY KEYS WITH ME, TRACY. I'M GOING INSIDE.

GASOLINE ALLEY By Frank King

And I'll sit up here with you.
Now it will be better turning corners.
I hope you're satisfied, Walt, with all the junk in the back seat—including me!

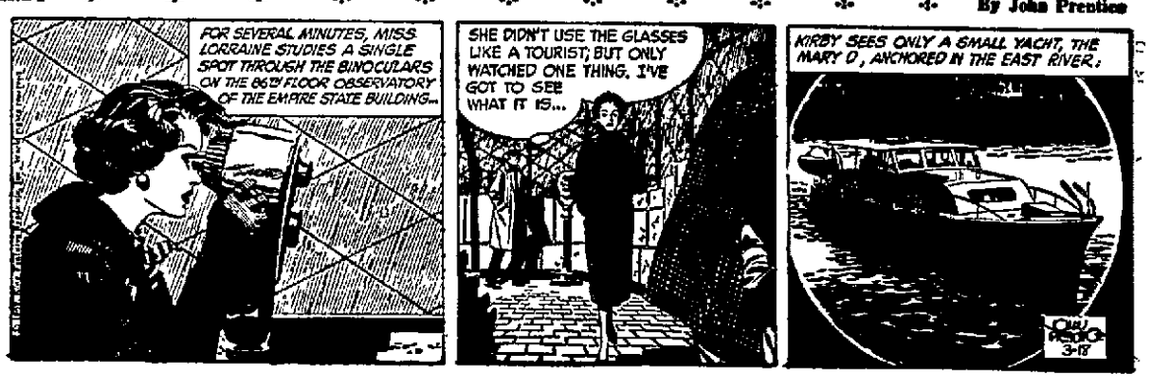
RIP KIRBY By John Prentice



FOR SEVERAL MINUTES, MISS LORRAINE STUDIES A SINGLE SPOT THROUGH THE BINOCULARS ON THE 86TH FLOOR OBSERVATORY OF THE EMPIRE STATE BUILDING...
SHE DIDN'T USE THE GLASSES LIKE A TOURIST; BUT ONLY WATCHED ONE THING. I'VE GOT TO SEE WHAT IT IS...
